ALLIES HAVE BROKEN GERMAN LINE, SAYS FRENCH

Indiana State Library

MILE OF ADVANCE IS CLAIMED BY BRITISH

Allies Win Some Advantage in West, But Germans Have Wrested Gains from Russians in East

Today's War News Given in Summary.

Further gains are reported by the allies today in the first great effort of the spring to roll back the German line now under way on the same ground where thousands of lives were lost last fall in the German attempt to break through to the English channel. According to Berlin the Germans are holding their ground.

The French war office announces that allied troops crossing the Yser canal took German positions on the eastern side at one point. A gain of ground near Hetsas also is claimed.

Following the recent British victories in German Southwest Africa, French forces have invaded successfully the German colony of Kamerun. A force from French West Africa completed the post of Esoka on May 11.

A German dirigible appeared over Calais last night and dropped bombs, killing two children.

The British admiralty announced that the Zeppelin which raided Ramsgate early this morning was pursued across the English channel by aeroplanes and apparently was damaged severely.

London, May 17.—(1:58 p. m.)—Field Marshal Sir John French has broken his silence in regard to the movements of the British army northwest of La Bassee with the announcement of an advance of nearly a mile into the German line. This, together with the continuance of the French thrusts both north of Ypres and southwest of La Bassee constitutes the outstanding features of the military today.

Military commentators here regard the British advance as a genuine break of the German line which if maintained must mean a retreat for a considerable section of the invaders' forces. Recapture of the bridge over the Yser canal at Steenstraete by the French deprives the Germans of their last connection with the west side of the waterway.

German assaults of the British position at Ypres seem to have spent themselves, at least for the moment, as Field Marshal French reports all has been quiet there for the last 48 hours.

Russian Defeat Severe.

Official reports from Petrograd do little to minimize the severity of the defeat which the Russians have experienced over practically the whole line from central Poland to the Carpathians. The victorious Germanic armies have robbed the Russians of most of the gains of the hard winter and early spring campaigns, with the exception of Przemysl, which is closely threatened on two sides by hostile forces. In the latest Petrograd communication there is a suggestion that the Russians are crouched behind the river San in readiness for one of these sudden movements such as previously have turned defeat into victory for them.

It is evident that the Austro-German forces will leave nothing undone in the attempt to force a crossing of the San. The Russians admit the loss of 50 guns during the retreat of their third army from the San but assert that most of them were destroyed.

New Zeppelin Attack.

Another Zeppelin attack on seaside resorts on the east coast early this morning accomplished no more than other recent air raids. British airmen, however, were awaiting the Zeppelin on this occasion and after a lively stern chase overtook it near West Hinder light ship. A vigorous attack by aeroplanes routed the Zeppelin, which when last seen had its tail down and appeared to have been damaged severely.

Germany's reply to America and Italy's next step divide diplomatic interest. Nothing has reached London to dissipate the impression that Germany's answer will be more or less negative. As to Italy the return of the Salandra government with its policy intact and enormously strengthened by public support, is accepted in England as confirming the belief that Italy will enter the war on the side of the allies.

Thomas J. McNamara, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty, announced in reply to a question in the house of commons today that 460,628 tons of British shipping, other than warships, had been sunk or captured by the Germany navy since the outbreak of the war.

TO AVOID HEAVY LOSS.

Germans Withdraw Smaller Forces to Main Positions on Canal.

Berlin, May 17.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—German army headquarters today gave out a report on the progress of hostilities reading: "In the eastern war theatre:

"North of Ypres and to the west of the canal near Steenstraete and Hetsas the Germans yesterday gave up their advanced positions and, to avoid losses from the strong artillery fire of the enemy, drew back their smaller forces to the main positions on the eastern bank of the canal.

"South of Neuve Chapelle the British still hold parts of the front trench taken May 15. The fighting continues north of Arras. Near Ablain and Neuville French attacks were repulsed with heavy losses for the enemy.

"German airships have successfully attacked the seaports of Dover and Calais."

(Dispatches last night from England set forth that a hostile air craft had appeared over Dover, but for a short time only and no mention of an attack was made. An airship, possibly the same vessel, did deliver an attack upon Ramsgate, 20 miles north of Dover, dropping forty bombs.)

"In the southeastern war theatre: The German advance between the Pilica river and the upper Vistula and along the front from Sambor to Stry and Stanislau continues. The river San has been crossed at several places near Jarislau and to the northward. There is fighting going on around Przemysl."

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF THE SCOTTISH RITE

Indianapolis, May 17.—Every train and interurban car brought to Indianapolis today Scottish Rite Masons from all parts of the state to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the lodge in the valley of Indianapolis which began today and will continue through Thursday. The morning was taken up with the registration of members and visitors at the temple. At noon there was a luncheon for candidates, followed with an address to the candidates by Charles W. Fairbank.

While the chief feature of the convention this week is the celebration of the golden jubilee of the birth of the rite in Indianapolis, which is to be marked by various functions, this part of the official program does not overshadow the conferring of degrees, which on this occasion is made especially notable on account of the fact that the class to receive the grades will number about 500.

Gerard Makes Report on Delivery of Note

Washington, May 17.—Ambassador Gerard at Berlin today notified the state department of the delivery of the American note to the German foreign office. It was the first official notification that the note had arrived at its destination, although its delivery had been reported in news dispatches.

The American government still was without advices early today indicating the nature of Germany's reply to the Lusitania note. Administration officials are reserving comment as to the probable attitude of the German government, but in diplomatic circles speculation still was rife.

Intimations by diplomats friendly to Germany that her answer might be an offer to suspend attacks without warning on merchant ships if the United States would renew its informal proposals for unrestricted passage of foodstuffs to Germany's civilian population have aroused keen interest. Officials declare the United States will not recede from its rights under international law, but intimate that if Germany acquiesces in the American position, the United States probably will press its contention of its right to ship foodstuffs to Germany. This matter still is under diplomatic discussion.

It is thought probable also that an understanding might be reached giving Germany definite assurances that no merchant ships leaving American ports would be armed, making it possible for submarine commanders to exercise the right of visit and search with impunity.

DESTRUCTION IN WAKE OF SATURDAY NIGHT'S STORM.

Three above pictures illustrate damage typical of that done by the storm all over the northern part of Allen county. The large barn in the first picture is on the farm of John Lapp, in Cedar Creek township, and even when the photograph was taken the owner and his neighbor were attempting to dig out some pigs that were imprisoned under the wreckage. Several head of cattle were killed here.

The scene in No. 2 is the barn of Mrs. Victor Delegrange, most of which was blown into the roadway. Road Supervisor Andrew Blume and his assistants are at work here.

Several head of cattle were killed in the destruction of the tremendous barn shown in No. 3. It was the property of Henry Lapp, and the loss here was great.

DUMBA AND BRYAN HOLD CONFERENCE

The Austrian Ambassador Would Assist in Peaceful Settlement.

Washington, May 17.—Dr. Constantine Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, had a long conference today with Secretary Bryan and other state department officials. While the ambasador would not discuss the object of his call the impression prevailed in well informed circles that he had endeavored to sound out feeling with a view toward assisting in a peaceful settlement of the situation with Germany.

It is known that the Austrian ambassador and Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, have been in close consultation for several days and that Austria is watching with deep interest the course of events between the United States and her ally, throwing her influence in the direction of preventing any rupture in friendly relations.

The seriousness of the sinking of the Lusitania with the loss of American lives, the intense feeling it has aroused in the United States and the country

CURIOSITY OF WOMAN UNCOVERS HIDDEN CASH

Richmond, Ind., May 17.—Mrs. Daniel Loy, a widow in modest circumstances in Eaton, Ohio, near here, is $1,600 richer through the curiosity of Mrs. A. L. Harris, wife of a former governor of Ohio. Mrs. Harris, a neighbor, entered the Loy cellar to get some article of food for Mrs. Loy, who is ill. Buried under a mass of rubbish she found several fruit jars filled with currency amounting to more than $1,600. The money had been accumulated and hidden there by Mr. Loy, a frugal gardener who died two years ago.

6,000 DEAD IN MASSACRE

Frightful Slaughter of Armenians by Turks and Kurds at Van.

RUSSIAN CONSUL REPORTS ATROCITY

Armenians Defending Themselves, But Plight is Desperate.

London, May 17.—(2:15 p. m.)—Six thousand Armenians have been massacred at Van, in Armenia, Asiatic Turkey, according to a dispatch received in official quarters in London today from the Russian consul at Urumiah, Persia. This message is dated May 15. It adds that the Armenians are defending themselves to the utmost against the Turks and Kurds arrayed against them, but that help is urgently needed.

News dispatches from Persia, Armenia and trans-Caucasia in Russia have set forth for several weeks that the position of the Armenians in Turkey as well as in northwestern Persia was one of grave danger, but no message has conveyed any indication of such extensive massacring as does this report to London. If it is true, the Armenian situation has entered upon a period which threatens to rival the conditions of 1895.

Kurds and Turks have been persecuting the Armenian residents of these localities for several months. Many have been killed, while large numbers have been driven away as slaves. The city of Van has normally 30,000 inhabitants. It is the seat of an important American mission, and the missionaries have taken an active part in the protection of Armenians.

BURGLAR IS READY TO GO OUT FISHIN'

A burglar who entered the F. W. Krift store, 1604 Sherman street, some time Sunday night, probably is out fishing. He stole 3,000 fish hooks of various sorts and sizes, two dozen catch lines, two balls of green lines, a box of sinkers, a box of silk lines, three big reels, three artificial baits, a carton of trolling spoons and some other angling things, besides a quantity of candy. Detective Sergeant Spillner, who investigated the case, believes it was the work of boys. Entrance was gained through a side window of the store.

TOLEDO BUSINESS MEN HERE TUESDAY

A meeting of the entertainment committee of the Commercial club will be held Monday evening at which time final arrangements will be made for the visit of the members of the Wholesale Merchants' and Manufacturers' board of Toledo. The visitors will arrive here at 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, over the Wabash and remain in Fort Wayne over night, leaving at 6:20 o'clock Wednesday morning for Huntington, and other points in Indiana.

About sixty of the largest manufacturing and jobbing concerns in Toledo will be represented, the object of the trip being to promote a better and more intimate relationship between the citizens of the various cities visited and the business men of Toledo.

SECURITY LEAGUE BREAKING IN.

The National Security league, an organization that is working to improve the national defenses, wants to start its work and organize a branch in Fort Wayne and Secretary Spencer, secretary of the committee on extension and branches, has written a letter to Mayor Hosey requesting him to furnished the names of ten prominent citizens who will be likely to undertake the organization of a branch here.

WIND STORM PLAYS HAVOC

Damage in Allen County by Saturday Night's Blow May Be $200,000.

MANY BARNS AND ORCHARDS LEVELED

St. Joseph and Cedar Creek Townships Suffer Most Heavily.

Many barns were completely demolished, much stock killed, fine orchards ruined, telephone and telegraph wires blown down and lives were endangered in a terrific wind storm that visited Allen county between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night.

The storm seemed to pass through the county in a northeasterly direction, playing havoc in its path and causing damage conservatively estimated at $200,000. Beyond any doubt the storm was one of the worst that has ever visited Allen county.

Much damage was done in surrounding counties and it is estimated that northern Indiana suffered to the extent of half a million dollars.

Although the wind blew a terrific gale and much rain fell, Fort Wayne escaped serious damage. Residents of the city had little idea of the great damage that was being wrought within a radius of a few miles.

KENT BLAIR DIES AT PHOENIX, ARIZ

Kent Blair, aged 34 years, a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Blair, of this city, died Sunday at Phoenix, Arizona, where he had gone nearly a year and a half ago in search of better health. At first the change of climate seemed to benefit him but later he took a turn for the worse. The message announcing his death was received here Sunday evening.

The deceased had been a resident of Fort Wayne ever since he was two years old and was well known in the city. He was a member of the Elks' lodge and also a thirty-second degree mason. He was an active member of the First Presbyterian church. For some years after graduating from an eastern college he was assistant ticket agent at the Nickel Plate station in Fort Wayne.

The remains will not be brought to Fort Wayne but will be taken directly to Lima, Ohio, where funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Besides the parents he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harry Hattersley, of this city.

CONDITION IS CRITICAL.

Charles Heaston Suffers Serious Injuries When Kicked by Horse.

Charles Heaston, a hostler employed by the Pape Furniture company, remains in a critical condition at St. Joseph hospital, where he was removed Saturday morning at 7 o'clock when one of a team of horses which he was watering kicked him, breaking his arm and right leg and inflicting a deep gash in his head.

After being injured he lay unconscious for some time before he was able to call for help. The police ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the hospital where his injuries were treated. Mr. Heaston's son, Edward, of Marion, O., has been notified of his father's misfortune and he was expected to arrive in the city Monday evening.

PRESIDENT LAUDS NAVY

Expresses Our Ideals, Says Wilson, in Address in New York.

NOTABLE SCENES MARK THE REVIEW

Cheering Throngs Acclaim President at Notable Spectacle.

New York, May 17.—President Wilson delivered a patriotic address on the American flag and the protection it carries for Americans at a luncheon given here today in his honor by the New York citizens' committee for the reception of the Atlantic fleet.

When the president arose to speak soon after reviewing the parade of sailors and marines from the fleet he was enthusiastically cheered. Five hundred army and navy officers and other guests jumped to their feet and applauded.

All the officers were in full dress uniform. Alton B. Parker, Jacob Schiff, Joseph H. Choate, August Belmont and many other prominent New Yorkers were among those present. Acting Mayor George McAneny introduced the president.

Navy Expresses Ideals.

The president declared that the luncheon was not the occasion at which it was wise for him to make an extended address. He said he had always had a deep interest in the navy. "It is right," he said, "that America should have a great navy to express its character. The navy of the United States," the president said, "expresses our ideals. The fleet lying here at New York is a great fleet and has nothing of bluster about it.

"The great thing about America is that it wants no territory and questions no other nation's honor. We stand for humanity and for the things that humanity wants."

Speaking of the Flag.

Speaking of the flag, the president asserted that it typified all that was best in the world.

"The mission of America," he went on, "is what her soldiers and sailors should think of. They have nothing to do with shaping of policies. Sometimes those who run the United States forget the principles it was founded on, but the people themselves never forget it.

"When a crisis occurs in this country it is as if you put your finger on the pulse of the nation, as if you put your hand on the pulse of a dynamo.

"We lift no threats against any nation or class in the United States. This fleet in the river is a great solemn evidence that force of America is the force of moral principle. There is nothing else for which she will contend."

At the conclusion of his address President Wilson left the hotel to inspect the fleet lying at anchor in the Hudson river.

Ran Into a Storm; Many Seasick.

The Mayflower's arrival last night instead of this morning, as planned, was explained today. The yacht ran into a storm off the New Jersey coast yesterday. Nearly every one in the president's party became sick, the chief sufferers being Secretary Tumulty and Charles Swem, the president's stenographer. For a time Dr. Grayson, the white house physician, was busy ministering to them. The president showed the effects of the voyage less than other members of the party, but did not feel well, he said.

FLEET GROOMED FOR REVIEW.

Notable Scenes Mark President's Presence in New York.

New York, May 17.—A mighty armada of battleships, destroyers, submarines and auxiliary craft, the nation's bulwark in case of war swung at anchor in the Hudson river today groomed for review by the president of the United States. The most powerful array of fighting ships ever assembled in an American port, the fleet stretches for four miles in a double line of solemn gray but touched with gayer colors where pennants and ensigns streamed from fighting tops and masthead in honor of the occasion.

Each battleship was in readiness to thunder out the presidental salute of 21 guns when the navy yacht Mayflower, with the president on the bridge passed them during the afternoon.

President Arrives.

Convoyed by the cruiser Baltimore the Mayflower, bringing the president from Washington, reached the harbor last night and after a short halt near Tompkinsville steamed up the river to anchorage off West Forty-first street. It was after midnight when she arrived there and the president and his party, expecting a long day of ceremonies had retired for the night. A squad of policemen and a patrol guard from Secretary Daniels' yacht, the Dolphin, remained on guard at the Forty-first street landing throughout the night.

The naval review preceded in the forenoon by a land parade, was on the program as the chief ceremonial feature of the ten days' visit of the Atlantic fleet to this port. Three times since the ships of Admiral Dewey returned from the victory of Manila bay, 17 years ago, has New York been the formal host of a United States fleet but never since Dewey's return has the presence of the warships been greeted [illegible]

DIE MAY BE CAST TODAY

Italian Cabinet is Called in Session to Discuss War Crisis.

GERMANS DISPUTE CLAIMS OF ALLIES

Deny British Report That Kaiser's Line in West Has Been Broken.

London, May 17.—Italy's long awaited decision for or against war may be reached today. Premier Salandra has called a meeting of the cabinet, the first since the political crisis, which resulted in the retention in office of the Salandra ministry. The final decision may be postponed, however, until the assembling of parliament, set for Thursday.

All Italy is in a state of feverish excitement, and in the temper of the people is represented as overwhelmingly in favor of war. Clashes between Austrian and Italian frontier guards are reported. News dispatches from the border say that an uprising has occurred in Trieste, one of the principal Austrian cities claimed by Italy. A crowd composed largely of women, became so violent in anti-Austrian demonstrations that it was charged by troops, occasioning the death of forty-seven women and injury of more than 300.

Disputed By Germans.

Another sudden thrust at the German line— this time just north of La Bassee —has been made by the allies, and, according to the French and British official reports, has been attended with conspicuous success. The claim of the British that the German line was broken down over the greater part of a two mile section is disputed, however, by the German war office, which says all attacks of the allies were repulsed. The operations now in progress are characterized as the most important of any since last fall.

A Berlin dispatch asserts the Russians have suffered very heavy losses in Galiscia, notwithstanding their denials. The Austrians apparently have made a further slight gain, but the Russians strongly placed on the River San are offering stubborn resistance. A great battle is expected along the river.

RUBBER BOOTS SAVES TWO FROM TRAGIC END

Had it not been for a pair of rubber boots which W. D. Holterman, cashier of the Fort Wayne Drug company, was wearing, he and his son, Louis, aged 18, would both have been killed Saturday evening when the boy became entangled in a wire fence which was charged with a heavy voltage of electricity. Immediately after the wind and electrical storm Saturday evening the father and son went out to see if the valuable chickens on the farm were safe. When they reached the wire fence, which surrounds the chicken house, Mr. Holterman climbed over and Louis started to follow.

The storm had broken the trolly wire of the Ohio Electric Railway company, which had fallen across the wire fence. Mr. Holterman was startled by a cry from his son and on looking back surmised what the trouble was when he saw the youth writhing in pain.

Without thinking what the result might be, nor realizing that his boots would afford him protection, Mr. Holterman rushed to his son's assistance. The boy was freed immediately. The boy suffered slight burns, but was not rendered unconscious and has nearly recovered from the shock.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Getz were guests of relatives at Garrett over Sunday.

St. Joseph and Cedar Creek townships probably suffered the worst. Hundreds of big trees were blown down, a number of the country roads being blockaded.

Struck By Lightning.

In attempting to get his stock out of the barn, Herman Beckman, residing in St. Joe township, was struck by lightning and temporarily paralyzed. His condition is not regarded as serious. Several sheds on his farm were blown over and much damage was done to his timber.

One of the remarkable features of the storm was the fact that but little damage was done to farm houses, except the blowing over of chimneys. Barnes were down in every direction and though in many instances they were located but a short distance from the house, they escaped or otherwise there would have doubtless been some fatalities.

Many cattle were killed, being caught underneath the falling timbers. Much stock was injured so badly that it had to be killed.

The large barn of Mrs. Victor Delagrange nine miles northeast of Fort Wayne, in St. Joseph township, was blown across the road. The large shed nearby in which Victor Delagrange met death a few weeks ago, when he was caught in a belt of a gasoline engine, was not damaged.

A short distance east on the farm of Wesley Smith, on the township line between St. Joseph and Cedar Creek township, another large parn was laid low. The greatest damage seemed to have been done along this road for a distance of about two or three miles.

The large bank barn on the farm of Henry Lapp, on the township line, occupied by Ezra Kiser, was blown flat, two cows killed, another cow had its back broken and will have to be killed and two or three head of hogs. Mr. Lapp had recently purchased much new farm machinery, all of which was damaged.

At the John Lapp Farm.

Even greater damage was done at the farm of John Lapp, brother of Henry Lapp, where the large barn was blown down, three cows killed and many trees in the orchard uprooted. In the front yard was a large apple tree, which was torn up by its roots and blown across the tops of some trees and dropped in a field a distance of two hundred yards away. Mr. Lapp had a large rocking chair on his front porch, which the wind picked up and carried to the rear of the house. No damage was done to the house, however, which is a large brick structure.

"I was just read for bed when the storm visited this section," Mr. Lapp told a Sentinel reporter. "The lightning flashed furiously and it sounded like every window pane in my house would be broken. I was afraid my house would go. Just as I looked out there was another flash of lightning and I could see that my barn was down."

Mr. Lapp, assisted by Mrs. Lapp, worked until almost daylight in getting his horses out from under the fallen timbers and rubbish. Outside of a few scratches the horses were not injured in the least, although they were prisoners and scarcely able to move for several hours.

The roof on the barn of Mrs. Joseph Delagrange, on the township line, was blown off and scattered over a nearby field. The wind played havoc to the orchard on the W. H. Northrup farm, while a part of the barn on the farm of Phil Roush in St. Joe township was blown down. One of his horses was struck by a fallen timber, breaking its leg.

The barn on the John Henry farm was blown down, two cows and 100 chickens being killed. Four horses were rescued.

Grabill Is Visited.

Much damage was done in the little town of Grabill. More than a dozen couples were at the skating rink when the storm made its appearance. Part of the tin roof was blown off, which put an end to their festivities.

The new house of Willard Snyder in Grabill which was under construction was blown down, the storm in a few minutes undoing the work that had required several weeks for skilled workmen to do.

George Klopfenstein had his horse tied to the rack in Grabill when the storm came along, unhitched the buggy from the horse and took it down the street for a distance of 100 feet, where it was left a mass of ruins.

The barn belonging to Hiram Roller, north of Harlan, was blown from its foundation. Mr. Roller is ex-trustee of Springfield township. The silos on the farms of Elmer Cook and John Watters in St. Joe township were carried away and hundreds of rods of fence were twisted from the ground.

At the State School.

Buildings on the farm of the Indiana school for feeble-minded youth were damaged to the extent of about $2,500. The east half of the brick dairy barn, a building 150x24 feet, was blown completely from the foundation, while the roof was carried into a nearby field a distance of fifty feet. The corn crib was wrecked and the frame wagon barn was lifted from its foundation and carried a distance of about thirty feet to the south. Much damage was done to the orchard, many trees being uprooted and splintered. About forty trees in the woods and grove near the Colonial building were torn out by their roots. One cow was injured.

Much Damage at Roanoke.

Much damage was done in and around Roanoke. Every electric light and telephone was put out of commission, and many trees were blown down. The barn of Fremont Thrasher, one-half mile west of Roanoke, was partly wrecked, while several large trees in front of the residence of Esley Ruppert were blown down, a large force of men working for several hours to remove the debris. The barn on the Roy Weaver farm south of Roanoke was blown down.

Storm Visits New Haven.

New Haven did not escape. The new garage building recently completed by Herman Hockemeyer was badly damaged and the barn of Ernest Cain is a total wreck. Hundreds of trees were uprooted. A corn crib on the rear of the lot of Dr. L. S. Null was blown in many directions. Practically all telephone and telegraph wires were blown down.

Twenty-seven fruit trees on the farm of George L. Ashley, a real estate dealer of this city,, were blown down, causing a loss estimated at $500.

Ten head of cattle was killed on the farm of Arthur Fast between Roanoke and Huntington. The cattle belonged to Warren Sponhauer, a tenant.

Very little cyclone or tornado insurance was carried by the farmers, who suffered the most damage.

Andrew Blume, who lives about eight miles from Fort Wayne, on the St. Joe road, was out early opening the roads. He is a deputy county road supervisor and has about thirty miles of road to look after. Many trees in his woods were uprooted, which was the only damage done on his farm, although many of his neighbors were not so fortunate.

Robison Park Escapes.

Robison park escaped with only one tree being uprooted, although about sixty poles were blown down along the track of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line to the park. Several days will be required to put the line in shape for operation again. Much damage was done to the high tension wires on all the electric lines out of Fort Wayne and linemen will be busy for several days making repairs.

Many trees along Parnell avenue were blown down. A chicken coop belonging to Frank Sarazen, who lives on Parnell avenue, was lifted from its foundation and carried to the yard of Andy Entrodacher, who lives next door. The barn on the farm of Henry Berning, in St. Joe township, was blown to the ground and much damage was done to his orchard. Hundreds of wind mills were blown down.

The chimneys were blown from the homes of Peter Schinkel and David Winburn, on Franklin avenue, and a chimney was torn from the house of 1226 Jessie street, also damaging a part of the roof.

Hundreds of telephones of the Home Telephone and Telegraph and the Central Union Telephone companies were put out of commission throughout the county and several days will be required before the service can be put back in normal condition. Some damage also was done to the Postal and Western Union Telegraph companies.

Hail is reported to have fallen in some sections during the storm. Considerable damage was done to the alfalfa, clover and oats crops.

In Milan Township.

Much damage was done in Milan township, although not to compare with the damage wrought in St. Joe and Cedar Creek townships. The barn, chicken house, wagon shed and wind mill on the farm of Judge Richard K. Erwin were blown down. The wind blew the barn of A. M. Hartzell from its foundation. He is president of the state bank at New Haven. The Hartzell barn was filled with farm machinery, all of which was more or less damaged.

An empty house at the end of Franklin street, in Bloomingdale, was lifted from its foundation by the terrific wind and carried for some distance down the Goshen road. Considerable damage is reported in Washington township.

A silo and a dozen fruit trees were blown down on the Dierdorf Dairy farm, three and one-half miles west of Fort Wayne. The barn of Joseph Mayhue, in St. Joe township, was badly demolished.

According to Prognosticator McDonough about .34 inches of rain fell during the storm of Saturday night and the highest velocity of the wind reached thirty-eight miles.

Huntington county suffered losses estimated at $100,000. Much damage also was done in Whitley, Koscusko, Wells and DeKalb counties.

Breaks Barn in Two.

A barn belonging to Joseph Mettker, of The Sentinel stereotyping department, on his place four miles east of the city, was broken in two, and part of it was thrown around behind the other. A shed less than fifty feet away was untouched, but a chicken coop was picked up and carried for three hundred feet. In cleaning away some of the debris, Sunday morning, Mettker was bitten by a dog causing a painful wound, although no serious results are anticipated.

Several large trees were blown across the stables in Centlivre park where valuable racing horses are housed, slightly damaging the structure. None of the horses was injured. Some of the fence at the track was taken away by the wind.

A large maple tree in front of the home of Peter J. Scheid, 427 East DeWald street, was blown over, falling on a magnificent cherry tree in Mr. Scheid's yard, which was the pride of the family because of its beauty and the quality of its fruit. The shade tree was nearly two feet in diameter.

CANAL BUISNESS IN MARCH SETS RECORD

Tremendous Total of Cargoes Passed Through Big Waterway.

Washington, May 17.—Record breaking cargoes passing through the Panama canal in March, according to war department statisticians, which have filled up approximately 1,800 freight trains of 20 cars each. These trains, it is estimated, would have totalled 275 miles in length or filled five parallel tracks from Panama to Colon. Had this freight been transported across the isthmus in freight trains, it would have required a train every forty-eight minutes, or fifty-eight trains a day.

The cargo handled in March through the canal aggregated 635,057 tons. This is almost 99 per cent. of the through freight hauled over the Panama railroad during the fiscal year ending last June and forty thousand tons more than the through freight handled by the road during the previous fiscal year. The Panama railroad was supposed to have the heaviest traffic per mile of all the railroads of the world, it was said.

The average loading of cargo carrying vessels through the canal in March was 5,040 tons.

This treatment is said to have acquired a wonderful reputation throughout the East, owing to its peculiar propensity to fortify the nerve force and generate health and a consequent personal magnetism, so essential to the happiness of every normal human being. It is claimed to be a blessing to those who are physically impaired, gloomy, despondent, nervous or who have trembling of the limbs, dizziness, heart palpitation, cold hands and feet, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act rationally as others do. Also of vast benefit to writers, professional men, office workers and the victims of society's late hours and over-indulgence in wines, liquors, etc.

By obtaining the treatment at some well stocked pharmacy, no one need know of another's trouble while the treatment has been widely prescribed and dispensed heretofore by physicians and pharmacists, the grain tablets are so prepared with full directions for self administration that it is wholly unnecessary to pay a physician for prescribing them. Just ask for three-grain Cadomene tablets, begin their use and soon all the joy of a healthy body, sound nerves and strength will be felt.

LIGONIER CONCERN TO REBUILD.

Ligonier, Ind., May 17.—The entire plant of the Banta-Bender company of this city, manufacturers of refrigerators, incubators, etc., was destroyed by fire Saturday. Loss of between $40,000 and $50,000 is estimated, with total insurance protection of $19,250. Authorized announcement is made that the concern will be rebuilt at once on land located near the New York Central railway tracks. It required but one hour for the flames to consume the three-story brick structure, in which from 35 to 40 men were given employment. At one time it was feared the fire would spread to the business section and preparations were made to get help from Goshen, Elkhart and other towns. When Ligonier firemen finally gained control of the situation, the flames were feeding on a low warehouse.

TELLS THE STORY OF CHILD'S SHAME

Harry G. Dennis Makes It Clear His Daughter is Badly Brought Up.

The Harry G. Dennis who, in a Cincinnati court room last Friday caused a sensation by declaring that Thelma Cohen, a 17-year-old wife then suing for divorce, was his long lost daughter, has been identified as a resident of Fort Wayne with domicile at 923 Washington boulevard west. Dennis returned to Fort Wayne Saturday and he relates the story of his first marriage, the birth of his daughter, the betrayal of his honor by his wife, who absconded with a man he had aided and the taking along with them of the daughter who, according to the story of Dennis, has been compelled by her mother to lead a life of shame.

Dennis says he married his first wife in Pinkneyville, Ill., where she was a country hotel waitress, nineteen years ago. Within the year a child was born When the child was five years old Dennis and his family were residing in Cleveland. There, one day, Dennis picked up a stranger in the street, who was down on his luck, listened to his story, took him home, gave him a place to stay and allowed him to remain. Dennis had nourished a viper in his bosom, for the man won the affections of Mrs. Dennis and in a few weeks the pair ran away together, taking the child, Thelma, and most of the Dennis domestic belongings. The man, Dennis says, was Rex J. Jeffcott, with whom Mrs. Dennis still sticks. For twelve years Dennis says he hunted for the pair, designing to get possession of his child. Once he saw her in New York among a group of children in Morningside park and talked with her, but she got away from him. Then in Fort Wayne, two months ago, Dennis saw Jeffcott on the street. Dennis learned that the betrayer of his home was here as the manager of the Indian Land School company, which had an exhibition car at the Nickel Plate station. Jeffcott also recognized Dennis and fled, but was followed to the Hartman house, on Washington boulevard west, where later Dennis learned that Jeffcott was staying with a woman and 17-year-old girl. Through the present Mrs. Dennis—to whom Mr. Dennis was married six years ago, after obtaining a divorce from his runaway wife—an interview was procured with the girl and she was proved to be the long lost daughter and told of the life her mother had made her lead, of her marriage to Kenneth Cohen, in Cincinnati—a match said to have been forced by her mother—of the life of shame her mother had compelled her to lead and of the pending divorce suit the wicked mother had put her under compulsion to seek.

Dennis will go to Cincinnati this week to petition the juvenile court for possession of his daughter. Her marriage to Cohen has been annulled on the ground that both the girl and her husband were not of legal age at the time they procured license and perjured themselves to get married.

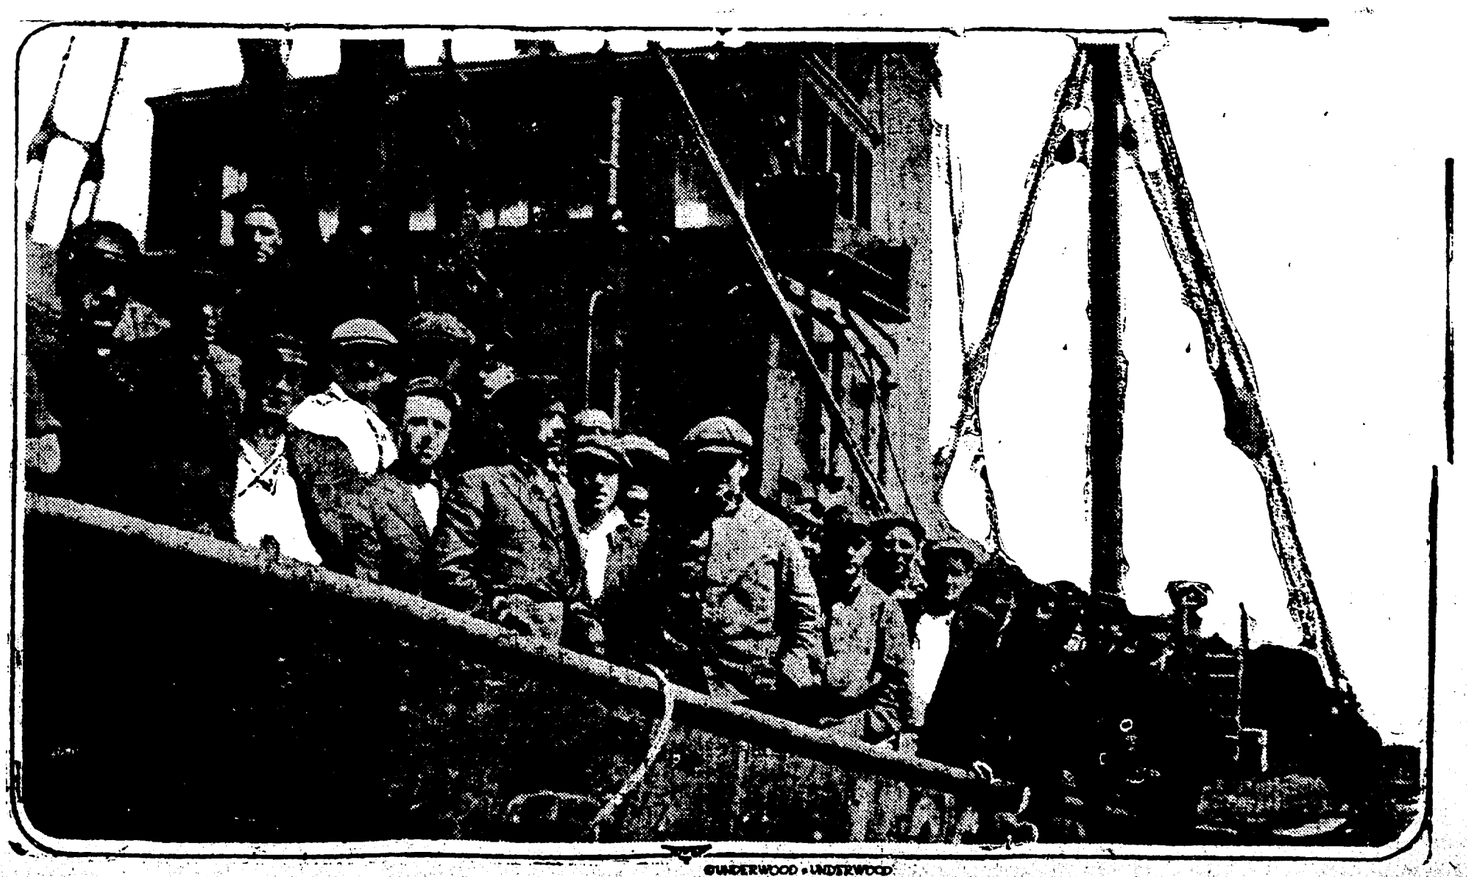
Gulflight's Crew on Deck of Rescue Boat After Narrow Escape From Davy Jones' Locker



©UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

These Americans might have lost their lives had their vessel, the Gulflight, gone down as did the Lusitania. The photograph shows all but three of crew of the torpedoed ship on board a British patrol boat in St. Mary's harbor, Scilly Islands. The missing three are the captain, who died of heart failure, and two seamen, who jumped overboard when the Gulflight was torpedoed.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Psalm 27:1-14.

1 The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me to eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell.

3 Though a host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident.

4 One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his pavilion: in the secret of his tabernacle shall he hide me; he shall set me up upon a rock.

6 And now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle sacrifices of joy; I will sing, yea, I will sing praises unto the Lord.

7 Hear, O Lord, when I cry with my voice: have mercy also upon me, and answer me.

8 When thou saidst, Seek ye my face; my heart said unto thee, Thy face, Lord, will I seek.

9 Hide not thy face far from me; put not thy servant away in anger: thou hast been my help; leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation

10 When my father and my mother forsake me, then the Lord will take me up.

11 Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path, because of mine enemies.

12 Deliver me not over unto the will of mine enemies: for false witnesses are arisen up against me, and such as breathe out cruelty.

13 I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living.

14 Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart: wait, I say, on the Lord.

Garrison's Military Program

It is now clearly evident, despite the agitation for disarmament and the protest against any course that smacks of militarism, that congress when it meets in December, will be importuned to take decisive steps toward what has been termed military and naval preparedness in the United States, urged by many men of influence as the surest guaranty of peace. There will be extremists, of course, who will favor going to a limit which most folk will insist is beyond all reason, and in the light of present probability the program of Secretary of War Garrison is the one most likely to receive favorable consideration. That program is, in brief, as follows:

1.—Fill up immediately the existing organizations which comprise the aggregate mobile army.

2.—Lay the foundation for a reserve army.

3.—Adopt some method for the training of more civilians to become officers in case of necessity.

4.—Make provision for additional guns and munitions of war of all kinds.

It would require 25,000 men to fill up the organizations to their full strength. The secretary of war intends to ask for authorization to enlist these men as soon as the legislative body comes together. He will also ask for authorization to obtain 1,000 more officers. For one reason or another more than 20 per cent. of the line officers of the army are always away from their commands. This situation, which, it is pointed out, is bound to continue, making it imperative, the secretary of war thinks, that an additional 1,000 officers should be provided.

But the activity in the army branch will represent probably only the smaller division of the problem. The navy is also to be vastly augmented if those who demand it have their way. There are numerous indications that a new propaganda in favor of enormous expenditures by the congress for military preparedness both on land and sea will soon be under way. The congress will have to choose between the extremists and the secretary of war, who reflects the conservative view.

Park commissioners at Indianapolis are taking steps to enforce the city ordinance requiring the use of dimming devices on automobile lights in the parks and driveways of that city, regardless of the attitude of the police in other sections of the city. They very correctly say that the excessively bright automobile lights are blinding both pedestrians and the drivers of oncoming cars are highly conducive to accidents, and while the police have chosen to permit drivers to ignore the ordinance on the streets of the city, it will be enforced in the parks. There is as yet, we believe, no ordinance in Fort Wayne regulating the use of the high-powered lights on automobiles, but the necessity for it is becoming increasingly apparent each day.

Friends of some of the convicted Terre Haute election gangsters have already started activity in the effort to secure their release from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth on parole, though the ink used to inscribe their names on the prison register is barely dry. In all probability they are going to have some little difficulty in inducing the parole authorities to accept the view that the brief term already served is sufficient to satisfy the ends of justice. They ought to appreciate the fact that trial and conviction in a federal court is not a joke.

Billy Sunday has accepted the urgent invitation to come to Chicago for an evangelistic campaign, and it is announced that the start of the moral clean-up in that city will occur early in 1917. The evangelist has no earlier date open, and, besides, he will need all the intervening time for the building of the 42-centimeter vacuum cleaners that will be equal to the big ask before him in Chicago.

For the first time since Fort Wayne was a small village, the Bluffton road out of this city is to be freed from road-houses by the refusal of the commissioners to renew the license of the Gephart place. Every institution of this character wiped out is a distinct gain to Allen county. The Sentinel trusts the officials will insist on retaining the gain won by refusing to license any other in its place.

The law of compensation is still working. Damage from the big storm Saturday evening is extensive in Allen county, but the resulting boom in business will doubtless cheer the drooping heart of the tornado insurance agent who finds no little profit in the prospect rather than the actuality of the time-honored ill winds.

ADJUSTING HOME RELATIONS.

(Indiana Daily Times.)

Judge Anita Grish, of the court of domestic relations, at Jersey City, N. J., handles "questions no man can settle." She believes she has found a woman's sphere; that she has found one line of public service to which woman and woman alone is peculiarly adapted. Judge Anita Grish is arbiter between woman and man; the go-between who settles quarrels of wife and husband.

In this court of domestic relations, conducted for the last seven months by a woman, the forms of law, and the fine technicalities of hoary precedent do not count for much. Judge Grish deals humanly with the human actualities of married life and strife. In the twenty or more cases handled each week by Judge Grish no lawyers appear and no laws are invoked or even mentioned. The press is not present. Both the husband and wife must be on hand, however, and there is a lot of straight talk in the privacy of this novel tribunal.

In the old days it was the custom to send the recalcitrant husband to jail, the wife would run out of money and plead for the early release of the husband. He would be turned out ostensibly to support the family. Judge Grish does not let this sort of sentimentality rule her court. The reckless man goes to jail until adequate and actual provition is made by him for his family, and in the meantime the city looks after the family to the extent of $5 a week.

It appears Judge Grish is able to adjust so many family breaks because she gets entirely away from statutes and accepts as real evidence the irrelevancies and intimate things that really go to the making of domestic war. She is able to prove how foolish the average family quarrel is. So she laughs many a trouble out of court and sees many a hard place in married life softened by the tears of mutual repentance and love renewed.

NATIONAL IDEALISM.

(Kansas City Times.)

There have been hinted suspicions of both sides in this European war that the foreign relations of the United States have been guided by commercialism.

There need be no answer to a sneer, and a boast is uncalled for. But Americans may justly be proud that, of all the nations, theirs is the only one whose policy has not been influenced by commercialism.

Whatever was the immediate motive of the world war, its roots lie deep in commercialism, as those motives are stated by the several nations themselves. "English jealousy of our trade," say the Germans. "German militarism which is designed to take colonies and trade for Germany" say the English.

Whether the "commercialism" takes the form of land lust or trade lust, back of the immediately clashing moralities and immoralities of the conflict commercialism is there.

No one of historic sense would deny or would wish to deny that the United States is proud of its trade and its trade conquests. But neither would anyone with historic sense deny that commercial considerations weigh less with this nation in its foreign affairs than any other. Its idealism is proved and will be still further attested. It is not afraid of being thought afraid; nor is it afraid of casting its all—of lives and of property—in the balance, when its conscience and not its self-interest declares that is the thing to do. The honor of a nation that is "too proud to fight" at other nations' banter is not quickly hurt. But once hurt, the "jingling of the guinea" will not help it.

The barbers of Fort Wayne have organized a baseball club as follows: N. C. Browand, captain; Charles Henker, manager; H. Westermann, B. Lichtenwalter, S. McClellan, George Stryker, Sid Hubbard, J. Collars, J. Brown, Charles Yeakley and J. Lower.

At an early hour the Tom Hunt roadhouse on Spy Run avenue was entered by burglars, who blew the safe and got away with $15. The shock of the explosion that opened the safe caused considerable damage to the building. A trail of blood leading from the scene to the Grand Rapids railroad indicated that one of the robbers was injured.

A marriage, which up to the hour of its consummation was kept secret, was solemnized Thursday night, when Mr. Felix Schanz, the well known photographer, and Miss Mamie Schmoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Schmoll, were joined in holy bonds by Rev. Father J. H. Oechtering, of St. Mary's Catholic church. An elaborate reception followed at the home of the bride. The Euphonia double quartet, of which Mr. Schanz is a member, attended in a body.

VICE OF EVERY KIND ATTACKED BY LYON

Sin in Terre Haute is Given an Airing by the Evangelist.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 17.—Dr. Milford H. Lyon is going after every known form of vice in Terre Haute in the evangelistic campaign he is waging in this city. He is leaving nothing undone in his effort to clean this city morally. Church members are being awakened to their responsibilities as they never were before.

"As far as saloons are concerned I want you to know I wouldn't even buy a lemonade in a saloon," the evangelist declared.

"Cards are a waste of time. They have wasted more time than any other agency I know of. If you want to be cheap and common be a card player.

High School Gamblers.

At this juncture several persons got up to go out. Dr. Lyon paused, leaned his arm on the pulpit for them to leave. While several women were in the aisles the crowd burst into applause and laughter.

"The smoke house ough to be closed," Dr. Lyon continued. "They permit high school students to gamble. It's a shame that such conditions are tolerated in Terre Haute.

"The church members have been a greater menace to this campaign than the keepers of saloons and houses of ill fame."

"A man who frequents a dance hall is a shame and a disgrace to any girl who allows his attentions," Dr. Lyon shouted. "I was amazed to learn that the high school in this city allowed dancing. To think of a public building being turned into a common dance hall. Moral conditions in this city are worse than in any other place in America."

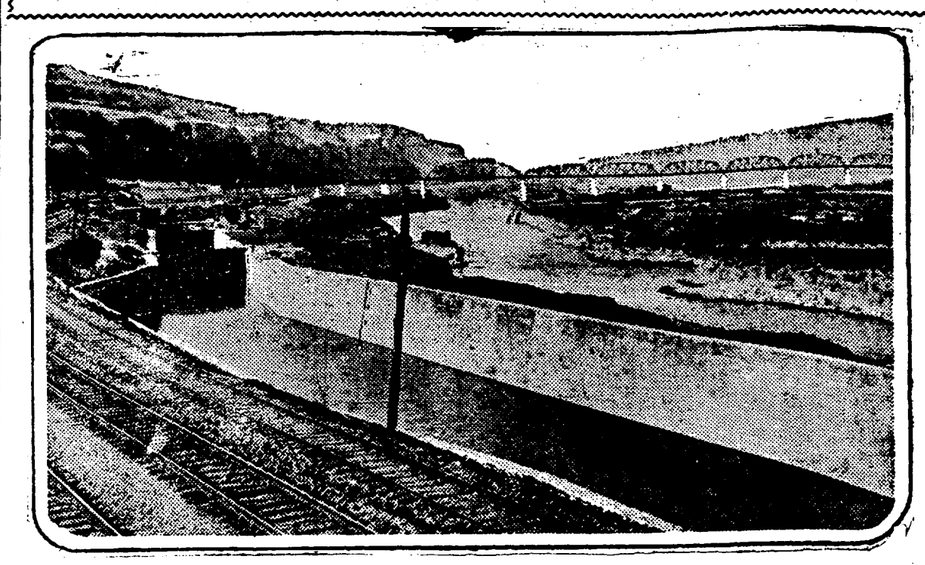
GREAT $6,000,000 CELILO CANAL IN NORTHWEST OPENED.



The opening of the $6,000,000 Celilo canal clears a steamer lane from Astoria to Lewiston on the Snake river. A week's celebration which started Monday, May 3, the day the canal opened, is being held in all the towns along the route from Lewiston to the sea. Since the days of the Lewis and Clark Expedition to the part of the country now known as the states of Washington and Oregon the Celilo stretch has been known as the most difficult piece of water on the Columbia. The canal now makes navigation easy.

MIDNIGHT MOVIES ARE TO BE GIVEN

Films Will Amuse New Yorkers Who Can Not Sleep at Night.

New York, May 14.—They gave a matinee performance of "Alice in Wonderland" a few days ago at 11 in the morning, the idea being to attract the children who have to be home and in bed early. Very soon New York is going to have a moving picture house where the performance will begin at midnight, the idea being to attract the crowd that doesn't know what to do with itself during the long watches of the night.

The Saturday morning matinee is predicted on the fact that with the girls home from school to help around, it is possible to get the breakfast dishes out of the way, the beds made and the carpet sweeper pushed over the rugs, and still have time to get out of the kimono and into the uniform and away by 10:30 o'clock.

Besides, if a woman is gaited to tango she can sandwich in a before-noon matinee between ordering the Sunday dinner and the first number on the P. M. dance program, which will help keep her mind occupied.

For Insomnia Sufferers.

The dog-watch movies, or the ten-cent Pullman, as they are called, will fill another field. It will be at the Garrick. There's a large and steadily growing number of New Yorkers who are afflicted with insomnia only at night. They have to find something to do to take the place of tossing restlessly on their couches. Then there are the train crews on the night runs into New York, who have to go out on the several 5:20s, and have some dark hours on their hands, so to speak.

EVILS OF CONSTIPATION.

Those who are habitually troubled with constipation and who permit their bowels to go two or three days without an operation have little relish for their food. Their stomachs become disordered, they have piles and kidney diseases. No one can reasonably hope for good health unless his bowels move once a day. If they do not move naturally they should be helped, and for this purpose you will find no better medicine than Chamberlain's Tablets. Obtainable everywhere. —Adv.

Baltimore, Md., May 17.—The German Catholic Union of Baltimore, which has a membership of 8,000, at its annual meeting adopted the following memorandum, addressed to President Wilson:

"While proud of our German ancestry, we know only one flag, the flag of our country, and we tender you, the standard bearer, our undivided loyalty.

"We have every confidence in your cool judgment, honest purpose and brave manhood, and are convinced that you would rather be right than president. That God may guide you is the prayer of the German Catholic Union of Baltimore and vicinity."

Runs Away; Glad to Run Back Home Again

MAY UNGER

May Unger hated to work in silk mills at Allentown, Pa.

Her eyes ached, her back ached, and especially her heart ached when the May breezes wafted the fragrance of lilacs into the dusty weaving room.

The out-of-doors called to her. She borrowed boy's clothes, clipped her hair and "ran away to the country."

At Warren, O., she was picked up in a box car—very dirty, but carefree and happy. It was only after a night in jail that she agreed to give up her quest of adventure, put on girl's clothes and bend her back again over the machine in the silk mill.

RESTORED TO PERFECT HEALTH.

"Prior to using Chamberlain's Tablets some four or five years ago I was a great sufferer from headache, dizziness and despondency. My appetite was poor and I was greatly troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets relieved me of these distressing symptoms soon after I began taking them, and eventually I was restored to perfect health," writes Mrs. E. Dietsche, Rome, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

ABE WILEY HAS IT ALL FIGURED OUT

Evolves a Highly Original Scheme to Resist Airmen's Attacks.

Benzonia, Mich., May 14.—Abe Wiley has perfected an idea that will make the United States entirely safe from aerial attacks.

Abe is a great lover of bees, wasps and hornets and probably understands their nature as well as anyone. Last summer he had the loft of his house full of hornets, and wouldn't tell what he was doing with them. Only the other day he came into town to consult Hank Pavey, the lawyer, about trying to get a patent on his hornets and gave away the whole thing.

He discovered that hornets hate the buzz of motors. It seems to enrage them. So he commenced training them. He'd start his auto engine going, opened the window of the loft, and a few hundrew hornets would dash at the motor and attack anything near it. When they came back he had drops of molasses for them as a reward. He got them so that when a city guy went by in a machine a mile away he could open the window, let them hear the noise, and they'd go for it like a flock of bullets. He figures that he can, in case of war, take boxes of his trained hornets to the front and whenever an aeroplane comes near, can send the hornets up at it. He'll guarantee one hornet to knock any fellow out of his seat in an aeroplane at one swat.

ADAPTING IT.

"Now, boys," said the school master, "I want you to bear in mind that the word 'stan' at the end of a word means 'the place of.' Thus we have Afghanistan—the place of the Afghans; also Hindustan—the place of the Hindus. Can any one get another example?"

Nobody appeared very anxious to do so until Johnny Snaggs, the joy of his mother and the terror of the cats, said proudly:

"Yes, sir; I can. Umbrellastan—the place for umbrellas."—Kansas City Star.

TRANSYLVANIA IS SAFE.

Big Liner Changes Her Course Through the War Zone.

New York, May 17.—The Archer line steamer Transylvania passed safely through the war zone about the British Isles and arrived at Greenock, Scotland, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, London time, it was announced by officials of the Cunard line, to which the Transylvania was under charter.

Fears had been felt for the safety of the Transylvania as she had a large cargo of contraband on board and her usual course to Liverpool, for which port she cleared, would take her near the point at which the Lusitania was struck and sunk by a German torpedo on May 6. Because of the danger of submarine attack the Transylvania changed her course and proceeded over a more northerly route.

The Transylvania carried nearly 1,000 passengers, of whom 28, according to the passenger lists, were American citizens.

SPROUTS IN CREAM.

(By Caroline Coe.)

Brussels sprouts are at their best in mid-winter and they are usually cheap at this season. "Sprouts" are a variety of cabbage, but have a decided flavor of their own and this flavor should not be spoiled by combination with other vegetables.

Creamed Brussels sprouts—Boil the sprouts until just tender; and to each box of sprouts cooked add two cups of rich white sauce made by melting four tablespoons of butter in a sauce pan. Do not allow to brown.

When melted add four tablespoons of flour and stir until a smooth paste is secured. Add two cups of cold milk and blend, then return pan to fire and cook slowly for twenty minutes.

Just before turning over the cooked sprouts add one-half teaspoon of salt and a little pepper. Send to table piping hot.

"WON'T YOU COME INTO MY PARLOR?" SAYS SPIDER TO BUTTERFLIES OF FASHION.

Unwary fashion has been caught in a spider web.

The hat of the moment is the spider-web hat, and it's the creation of Miss Virginia Rappe, a young woman who has lifted fashion designing to the plane of a fine art.

The spider-web hat is navy blue maline built in triple circles of blue satin straw; the crown of navy blue satin straw fits close as a skull cap, but its severity is relieved by quaint 1830-style streamers of navy blue velvet.

AT THE NEW PALACE

La Graciosa, the Queen of Beauty, Tops New Bill Today.

Diligent study and wide experience have contributed to the success of a spectacular scenic novelty, "Visions in Fairyland," that is the headline attraction at the New Palace by La Gracoisa, the queen of beauty. To use the street expression, "There is class to La Graciosa" and has been termed by many eastern critics as the Modern Venus. Other features on the bill will be the charming comedienne, Dorothy Brenner and company, who will present a singing and dancing novelty entitled "At the Candy booth." Capitol City Trio in "merry moments and in mirthful tunes;" Earl Vance, the scientific cartoonist, will show how comic cartoons are made for moving pictures. Doyle and Elaine, two clever girls in a singing and musical offering together with Jaunts and Journeys, the interesting travel pictures.

Tuesday will be "Ladies' Day" at the New Palace when the fair fans will be ushered to the best seats in the afternoon for five cents.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

MARY PICKFORD AS "FANCHON"

Adorable Little Screen Witch at Jefferson.

A glimpse at the screen is sufficient to understand the reason for the numerous requests to see little Mary Pickford portray the title role in Georges Sand's lovely idyl, "Fanchon the Cricket." Mary does not only interpret the character—she incarnates it. She is Fanchon, with her many wiles and moods, her mischieviousness and her loyalty to her friends and lover, her pranks and her generosity.

In connection with tomorrow's principal attraction, which is a splendid Famous Players version of Clyde Fitch's noted drama, "The Moth and the Flame," the Jefferson has secured for projection some exceedingly graphic views taken of the ill-fated liner Lusitania, just prior to her last sailing.

AT THE MINUET.

Charles Chaplin and "Who Pays."

The interest that has been aroused among local theater-goers by the serialized short stories which are captioned under the interrogative head, "Who Pays?" has been really phenomenal up to the present showing, which brings to light the third story of this thrilling series. These brilliant sketches come from the prolific pen of Edwin Bliss, a youthful author who has done his finest work in executing these twelve short stories, which have for the themes a dozen incidents taken from life. Today's chapter comes under the title, "When Justice Sleeps."

In connection with the chapter of "Who Pays?" the Minuet will show the usual Chaplin comedy, a feature greatly appreciated by the patrons of this playhouse.

AT THE COLONIAL

"The Fifth Commandment."

The appeal in this touching photo-story of the famous old dramatic success, "The Fifth Commandment" is a far-reaching one, and it never fails to arouse in the beholder a deep sense of the obligations that binds one to their fathers and their mothers. "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother," is the moral that it emphasizes with a kind of gentle and almost beautiful insistence, and the touching climax which marks the finale of the appealing story finds many sympathetic tears in the eyes of those who have some time or other in their lives felt the emotions which alternately scourge and thrill the characters in the story.

On the morrow the Coloniat will have an attraction of unusual importance in "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," a film-drama adapted from Robert Service's celebrated poem.

Attention is called to the fact that no one ever seems to think of a bee as a bug. Insect is about the worst thing they are ever called.

NOW LET EVERYBODY CAKE-WALK—OLD PRANCING STEPS NEW AGAIN.

Here's Some Lively Stepping for Cake-Walkers.

The Dizzy-Drag is the liveliest of the cake-walk steps. As the usual prancing steps are danced the lady looks flirtatiously over one shoulder, and then over the other. The man steps from right to left of his partner on every fourth step.

BLACK AND WHITE GARB BY NO MEANS SOMBER.

Monte Carlo, the only place on the face of all Europe where Gaiety and Fashion reign and take no heed of war has set the fashion for black and white.

Black and white may be "second mourning," but nevertheless it's very striking—more vivid than the gaudiest of colors and lends itself to effective combinations far from somber.

One of the few fashions American women have borrowed from Europe this spring is the black and white costume—stripes are very popular but the combination is often effected by wearing a fancy jacket of black over a dress of black and white.

CUBS GRAB TWO IN WEEK-END GAMES

Ainsworth and Donley Pitch Wonderful Ball and Win.

Youngstown, O., May 17.—Those Fort Wayne Cubs know no favorites, and they don't give a whoop who it is they lick. After walloping the trailing Erie sailormen for an entire series they shifted to Youngstown, at the top of the league list, Sunday, and gave the leaders a most artistic trouncing. Donley was in the box, and with errors enough for a whole series behind him, he held the locals down and pulled out a win, 9 and 5. Although the Cubs pulled seven errors Donley allowed only six hits in the game, and kept them pretty well spread out, while his teammates piled up thirteen mighty wallops. Hill and Gray worked the mound for the locals but they looked alike to the Hoosier batters.

In addition to hurling the best game of Brant, ss. ..... 4 0 0 2 4 3 men with one down in the third, when he singled and started things for the guests. Smith walked and Bratchi doubled and scored the pitcher. Brant fanned and Holderman drove one out too hard for Scheeran to stop, scoring Smith. Bratchi scored when Hartle tapped out a single.

In the fourth Bell singled and Hartsell sacrificed and Donley singled Bell across the plate.

Holderman opened the fifth with a single and Hartle popped out but Bell doubled and Hill was yanked out of the box. Gray flung one across and Hartsell spanked it out for a single, scoring Bell. Then he stole and scored on Gard's hit.

In the ninth Hartle singled and was sacrificed by Bell, Hartsell was safe on an error and Gard singled Hartle home. Donley finished with a bunt that sent Hartsell across the plate.

The Youngstown crew got two in the fifth and one in the sixth, and the only others were a pair in the eighth when it was forever too late to catch up. The score:

The Saturday Game.

That Ainsworth boy is right there. Working hard in the pinches he took the last of the Erie series Saturday when the Cubs defeated the sailormen 7 and 2. It was a rather long drawn out game and the feature of the affair was two home driver by Brant and a two-bagger and one that went for three by Scott.

Fort Wayne grabbed off three of its tallies in the third when Smith opened the way with a single and Bratchi bunted him to second and went to first safe himself. Each grabbed another base on a fumble and Smith scored on a passed ball. Brant hit over left field fence and scored the other two.

Smith opened things again in the fifth when he walked, Bratchi sacrificed and Brant shot another homer that scored two more. Holderman singled, as did Hartle, who sent the big first sacker to third. Hartle stole and Holderman went home when Close got rattled and threw to the stands. Heck went into the box at this point and Hartsell popped out. Bell singled, scoring Hartle.

Erie got one in the seventh when Scott triple dand Miller singled, and another in the ninth when Scott doubled and Miller again singled, sending him home. The score:

Ladees An' Gentlemen!! The Seven Scarlet Haired Swatters From Cincy--Right This Way.

Here they are, boys—the red-headed Cincinnati Reds. At top, from left to right: Wingo, Ames, Dooin and Killifer. Below, upper pictures, Griffith at right and Mollwitz at left. Lower picture, Lehr.

(By Hugh Fullerton).

Hy-a-a-ah!!

Hy-ah y'are, ladies an' gentlemen!!

Step right this way! Over this direction; ladees and gentlemen. See the greatest marvels of the baseball world—seven of them—count them—seven, all genuine, guaranteed not to ravel, wear, fade or lose their color or run down at the heels.

Seven of them—count 'em—seven!!

The seven scarlet haired swatters from Cincinnati; the real, genuine Cincinnati Reds!

Here they are, ladies and gentlemen: Red Griffith, Red Dooin, Red Killifer, Red Mollwitz, Red Lehr, Red Wingo and Red Ames.

Don't crowd, ladees and gentlemen. Peers closer and examine the most marvelous troupe of Titian tinted tops that ever adorned a baseball team. Seven auburn athletes.

Every shade of red, ladees and gentlemen, known to the artist is on exhibition here today all for the small sum of 25 cents, a quarter of a dollar.

See the wonderful Titian Topped Tommy Griffith, whose hair outradiates the rays od Old Sol and makes him a marvel in the sun field. Gaze upon the luxurious lovely maroon mop that illumines the brilliant brain of Leon Ames. See the sun burned strands upon the dome of Mollwitz; the ripe peach glow reflected upon his hair from the peaches of his own native state of Michigan. See the glorious glinting gleams from the hirsute halo of Ivy Wingo! Cast your eyes upon the auburn aureole of Lehr, who wore the crimson colors on his head while pitching Harvard to defeat.

One moment, ladees and gentlemen, while the gentlemanly usher passes among you and, for the small sum of a nickel, a half a dime, rents to you smoked glasses that you may scan the scarlet scone of Killifer!

Last but not least, ladees and gentlemen, we have Charles Dooin, whose temper once burst through the top of his head and flared out through his hair. The umpires are compelled to carry hand grenades to extinguish him for fear the flashes from his hair will ignite the grandstands.

The greatest aggregation of scintillating sorrel tops ever gathered upon one ball field; the real Cincinnati Reds!

SHIFTS IN TEAM ON ROAD TRIP

When Bade Myers pilots his Cubs to the field here Wednesday afternoon to open the home series with Youngstown there will be many changes in the line-up. Tuman, who worked pretty well all season, considering, was released, and Smith will be working outfield, while Bell, who joined the club on the road, will handle the third sack. There is some doubt about Beyers getting back into the game by the middle of the week as the is nursing a bad hand and Gard is substituting with pretty classy ball.

CONCORDIANS DROP ONE TO CULVER

Lose First Contest in Nine Years to Military School.

Cap Byroade's Teutonic legions went down to defeat before the Culver swaddies Saturday afternoon in the first game the Concordians have lost to the military school in nine years. It was a real case of umps, too, and the indicator man after the game admitted that he had ruled a foul fly fair by mistake, and it was this liner that shot across the two runs that won for the Culverites. The whole school turned out to meet the Concordians on their return trip and the band and cadets marched through the streets Saturday night with the returning warriors of the diamond (new stuff), drumming up their spirits and trying to forget their defeat. Quality

IN THIS WORD you have the basic idea of the Patterson-Fletcher Company Store.

Quality at this store means more than the material

Quality here is expressed in perfect tailoring and smart styles, as well as excellent materials. It seems to us as though many Fort Wayne merchants have disregarded tailor-work entirely and are trying to see how much material they can give you for $10. Should you be caught in a rain, we know you still want to feel that you have a suit, not merely a bundle of rags. Every Hart Schaffner & Marx Suit is hot and cold weather shrunk and is tailored by hand.

These things are part of the Quality at this store. We try to make this class of clothing as near as possible to the price of common clothes.

"Not high priced—
But high value for the price"
IS OUR MOTTO

Just see how much real value we can give you for..... $25

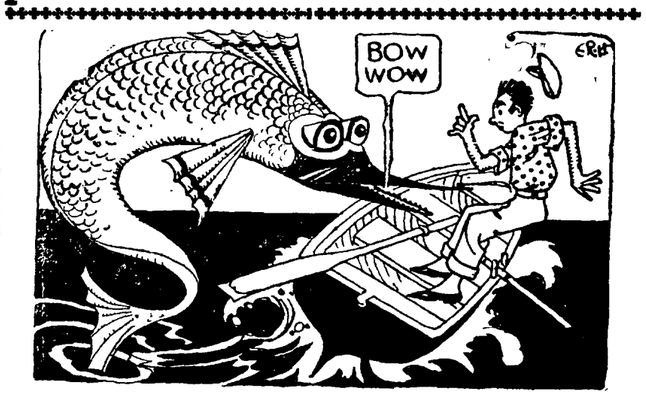
'NOTHER REPORT FROM THE FRONT AND IT'S NO MORE FISHY THAN SOME OTHERS.



Joliet, Ill., May 17.—Censored reports of a twenty-minute battle on the banks of the drainage canal bring hair-raising accounts of a blood-spilling engagement between Lem Northern, the hotel man, and a mad dogfish.

No one knows where the dogfish came from—nothing bigger than a bullhead was ever before seen in the canal—and no one knows where he went to, but Lem declares that while he was sailing a neutral vessel round the canal a huge thing with a beak like a bird, a bark like a dog and a tail like a fish, jumped into his boat and opened a fire of barks and hideous bellows.

Lem responded valiantly to the challenge and after twenty minutes of hard fighting the monster didn't have a bark left in him and he beat a double quick retreat back to the depths of the drainage canal.

er patriotic interest than this occasion. Hundreds of thousands thronged streets at an early hour to witness the land parade, and seek vantage places on the water front. The city was in holiday attire and decked with flags.

Sets Out for Shore.

This morning the president set out for shore aboard a navy launch to perform the first duty of the day, a review of the land parade of sailors, marching and New York state naval reserves, 6,000 strong. Waiting to greet him at the foot of Fourty-first street were representatives of the Mayor's citizens' committee, an escort of mounted police and a great crowd of citizens. Automobiles were on hand to carry the president and his official party to the reviewing stand in front of the public library at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street. Extraordinary precautions had been taken to protect the chief executive. In addition to the usual secret service guards and the uniformed police the whole detective forc, 600 strong, had been ordered to report and assigned to stations along the line of March.

Where All Was Bustle.

Meanwhile all was bustle and activity aboard the sixteen dreadnoughts in the river. From each ship 250 bluejackets and sixty marines were landed to form four regiments of blue-jackets and one of marines—under the command of Admiral De Witt Coffman, brigadier commander. Not a few of the officers and men had distinguished themselves at Vera Cruz more than a year ago. Between regiments marched the ships band and a regiment of New York state naval militia swung in behind.

The line of march densely packed with spectators was along 25th street to Fifth avenue, up Fifth avenue to Fifty-seventh street, to Broadway and up Broadway to the embarking point at the foot of Seventy-ninth street. The head of the parade was timed to reach the reviewing stand at 10:30 o'clock. Here Admiral Fletcher and other high officers of the fleet, Acting Mayor McAnenny and other local notables had seats with the president. They were to accompany him after the parade to the Biltmore hotel, where he was to be the city's guest at a luncheon and make a brief speech.

The program called for Mr. Wilson's return to the Mayflower immediately after lunch.

Program for the Review.

The president will receive formal calls later. The Mayflower was to weigh anchor about 3:30 for the review. Her course cleared of all other traffic was north between the battleships and Manhattan shore. The Mayflower's escort was a division of destroyers followed by the dispatch boat Dolphin carrying Secretary Daniels and by the fleet tender Yankton, the police boat patrol and the auxiliary cruiser Dixie.

The fleet which the president sees today for the first time in his official capacity comprises virtually the entire strength of the Atlantic naval forces and is the backbone of a navy which at the outbreak of the European war stood second only to Great Britain's and Germany's. The cruiser division alone is not represented. Of the sixteen battleships the superdreadnoughts New York and Texas with their great 14 inch guns are rated the most powerful. The other units of the battle squadron in the order in which they were built are: Wyoming (flag ship), Utah, Florida, Delaware, North Dakota, Michigan, South Carolina, Kansas, New Hampshire, Louisiana, Virginia, Rhode Island, Nebraska and Georgia. Sixteen destroyers, twelve submarines, three monitors, mine laying, repair, hospital, refrigerator and other auxiliary vessels compose the rest of the fleet.

Tonight the president and his official party will have dinner with Admiral Fletcher aboard the Wyoming. The day's program will end with a race among boat crews from the battleships and a water carnival which they will witness from the Wyoming's deck.

Solid Wall of Umbrellas.

A sharp rain spattered the natty uniforms of the sailors with mud as they swung into parade formation, shortly after 10 o'clock and headed north on Fifth avenue for the reviewing stand in front of the library, between Forty-first and Forty-second streets. Soon after they started the rain changed again to a downpour. A solid wall of umbrellas dripping rivulets of water, sheltered the thousands who had come to see and cheer along the line of march.

President Wilson left the Mayflower in a launch and came ashore at the foot of West Forty-first street at 10:15 o'clock. He was accompanied by Acting Mayor McAnneny and W. Duncan Butler, vice chairman of the citizens' committee, whom he had invited aboard the Mayflower. As he entered an automobile to drive to the reviewing stand the two troops of mounted police, who had escorted Mr. McAnney to the pier, started their horses in a canter. As they clattered over the cobblestones, 100 strong, other mounted police took their station beside the automobile in which the president rode and escorted him during the short ride.

Roared Noisy Welcome.

The president rode between thousands of persons lining the sidewalks who cheered and roared a noisy welcome. The presidential party traveled a rapid pace through the streets, trailed by secret service men and a detachment of detectives from police quarters. Seldom had such precautions been taken before to guard a president in New York city. Along the way the president traveled there were many detectives in the streets, some of them being stationed even in tops of houses so that they might better observe the throngs. The secret guard also was unusually heavy.

When the president arrived at the reviewing stand he found the seventh regiment New York National Guard drawn up in salute. The block in which the stand stood was roped off from the public as the head of the column of mounted police dashed into the square, the throngs for blocks set up a cheer that did not end till the president had taken his place. The arrival of his automobile was heralded by a fanfare of trumpets that was almost drowned in the roar of human voices.

Stands Beneath Awning.

Immediately in front of the spot where the president stood beneath an awning to protect him from the rain, a bank of flowers hid the woodwork of the platform. At the corners of the stand the big American flags drooped in the rain, but the weather apparently did not dampen the enthusiasm of the crowd. Within the stand the president was surrounded by naval officers resplendent with gold lace.

A few minutes after the president had reached the stand the head of the parading line came into view. A battalion of mounted police preceded the marchers. Next came the marine corps band, then the marines themselves, clad in dark blue jackets with light blue trousers and then the regiments of sailors. As each detachment passed the president was saluted.

Throughout the parade the president stood, silk hatted, intent on the spectacle, serious of face except when the passing of the women from the previous May Fete Parade, the battleships drew ripples of laughter from the crowd. The line was not long in passing the stand. When the last detachment had passed the president, accompanied by Acting Mayor McAnneny, Admiral Fletcher, officers of the cabinet, Mr. Butler, representing the citizens' committee, naval officers and members of the committee, left for the hotel Baltimore, where the program called for a brief address by the president and a luncheon by the citizens' committee.

wide support which has been given to President Wilson's note are facts which both the Austrian and German ambassadors are understood to have communicated to their respective governments. It was believed also that they had cautioned extreme care for the present at least in the submarine warfare to avoid any act which would further intensify feeling in the United States and aggravate the situation. ...

FINE SHOWING IN FIRE DRILL TESTS

Pupils in Both Public and Parochial School Well Disciplined.

Clang! Clang! Clang! sounded an alarm.

"Fire!" beat the brain of every child as he sprang to his feet, dropping or throwing whatever he had in his hands. Even the teachers' pulses quickened and some of them trembled as they marshalled their charges out of the building in double-quick step.

And after all it wasn't a fire, but merely Capt. John F. Huber, of No. 8 engine house, who with his men was on a tour of inspection of Fort Wayne public and parochial schools, trying the pupils quick exit to be ready in case of real danger.

"They all did quick work," said Capt. Huber, "and some of it was remarkable. One building we reported because of the difficulty the children had in getting to fire escapes. But we found all the pupils well disciplined."

Consulting his notes, Capt. Huber gave the buildings and the time of exit as follows:

Hoagland school, 465 pupils, one minute thirty-five seconds.

Minnie school, 500 pupils, one minute and twenty seconds.

Hamilton school, 360 pupils, one minute and sixteen seconds.

James H. Smart school, 675 pupils, one minute and twenty-five seconds.

St. Catherine's academy, 611 pupils, one minute.

Emmaus school, 250 pupils, one minute and two seconds.

Zion's school, 323 pupils, fifty-eight seconds.

Hanna school, 500 pupils, one minute and five seconds.

The drills have been in progress for some days, and no notice has been given of the time of the test.

It is expected that there will be quite a number of volunteers for this work from among those who are directly interested in flood prevention. Other solicitors will be employed. SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

ONLY TWENTY-TWO MEN SUSPENDED

Wabash Shop Force Reduction Not as Heavy as Expected.

The suspension of employes at the Wabash shops Saturday was not as serious as expected. Instead of suspending forty-four, as expected, only twenty-two were laid off. This condition is due to an increase in the appropriation for shop expenses, granted by the management of the road Saturday. So far as known now the shops will be operated upon a forty hour weekly schedule with the former force less the twenty-two men dropped. The reduction in force as first planned hit the machine shop worst, it being announced that there would be eleven machinists and fourteen helpers let out. Only six machinists and about seven helpers were really dropped from the pay rolls.

NOT BAD ON RAILROADS.

The tornado which swept over northeastern Indiana Saturday night did not cause much damage to railway companies. The Pennsylvania had all its wires broken at a point one and a half miles west of Columbia City by a tree falling upon them. Repairs were made and the lines were operated as usual by 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The G. R. & I. had two wires broken at Wallen and a fuse burned out at the junction west of the city, which interrupted telegraph and telephone operation for a short time. The Nickel Plate had some trouble east of South Whitley, which was soon remedied and the Wabash had trouble at various points, but none of a serious character. The Lake Erie and Western and the Lake Shore were only slightly troubled with their wires.

Favorable replies have already been received. It's wrong to steal a watch or chain,
From off your neighbor;
And if you do, it's right that you
Receive at least a year or two
Hard labor;
Society demands relief
From all who play the petty thief.

But if you pinch a million bucks
And pose repentance,
The law its mercy may extend
And treat you as an erring friend
And ease your sentence;
Strange such big difference should be
'Twixt high finance and larceny.

MODERN BARNUM BUYS AN ARMY AS A THRILLER FOR WILD WEST SHOW.

Joseph C. Miller on his famous charger, Ben Hur. This horse is valued at $5,000, and the saddle Miller uses is worth $10,000. It is silver mounted and inlaid with diamonds and rubies—500 jewels in all. Ben Hur is an Arabian stallion formerly the property of Homer Davenport, famous cartoonist, now dead.

(By Mark Larkin.)

San Francisco, May 14. Barnum, the circus king, had nothing on Joe Miller as a showman. Which is the reason I am telling this story.

There came a time once, it seems, when Joe better known as Col. Joseph C. Miller, heading the 101 Ranch Wild West show on "The Zone," at the world's fair here was hard put for a new attraction for his cowboy circus which was then on the road.

After laborious deliberation Joe finally conceived the idea of buying an army and startling the public with a few true-to-life battle scenes including a couple of massacres and an ambush or two.

"What!" exclaimed his astonished manager, "an army! Suffering fishes, where can you buy an army?"

"Waal," drawled Joe in his soft cowboy fashion, "I reckon I'll go down to Mexico for it. They're a-doin' a bit of revoluting down there and I reckon I might pick up an army right cheap."

So off to the border hiked Joe. But first he armed himself with a letter of credit from the president of the First National bank of Bliss, Okla., where the 101 ranch has its headquarters, said letter setting forth that Mr. Joseph C. Miller was authorized to draw a check for any amount he saw fit—any amount, mind you.

Joe arrived at the border just in time to see the tail end of one of Huerta's armies (5,000 strong) disappearing over the hill accompanied by a couple of regiments of Uncle Sam's soldiers who were herding said army up to the detention camp at Presidio, Texas.

"Waal, I reckon that's my army, all right," mused Joe, as he watched the dust cloud growing smaller in the distance. "I don't much want them peon soldiers, but I would like powerful well to have their hosses and guns. Reckon I'll talk to the Mexican consul; maybe he can fix it."

And the Mexican consul did fix it. Through Consul Fernando Serrano, at Marfa, Tex., Joseph C. Miller purchased an army, including 1,500 head of horses, an uncountable number of guns, 500 barros, great gobs of saddles, ammunition, scrapes, tamale recipes and questionable reputations—everything, in fact, except the soldiers themselves. "And the only reason I didn't buy them," Miller explained, "is because it would a busted me to git naturalization papers for the whole crowd.

"I could be arrested for tellin' you how little I paid for that army," continued Colonel Miller. "Since that I sold enough hosses to the United States government to pay for the whole business and still had enough left to have staged an imitation of the European war.

"An' I keep the bill o' sale for that army in my grip just to show to press agents and newspaper men. Come on up to the room an' take a look at it."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SOLDIERS TO STUDY FARMING BY MAIL

Regiment on Mexican Border Will Take Correspondence Course.

Manhattan, Kan., May 13.—Instead of spending their time serenading the fair Mexican senoritas, a regiment of soldiers down on the Mexican border is going to improve its spare moments by taking correspondence courses from the Kansas state agricultural college.

Col. H. J. Slocum, who is in command of 900 men along the border, has written to the college asking for information as to the organization of correspondence courses in his regiment. Col. Slocum was formerly the commandant in the United States military prison at Fort Leavenworth and came into touch with the work of the correspondence study department while there. In his letter he says:

"I would like to start work among my soldiers similar to the work given by the college among the prisoners at Fort Leavenworth. The work there was very practical giving excellent results."

IN THE CHURCHES

PRESIDENT'S STAND LAUDED BY PASTORS

Peace Sunday Observed in Many of the Churches of the City.

In the observance of Peace Sunday in the churches of the city, many pastors, in their sermons, lauded the stand of President Wilson in the matter of continuing this nation as a peace advocate, and also for his Christian character. All the pastors indorsed the way in which he has handled the many difficulties which have arisen in this county on account of the European conflict.

One of the most noteworthy services in observance of the day was held Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church when the pastor, Rev. Henry B. Master delivered an eloquent sermon on the subject, "America, the Prodigal." He stated that America was passing through a crisis and that he believed that the men at the head of the nation would steer it safely to the gulf of peace.

The First Baptist church was the scene of a very auspicious service Sunday evening, when four leading business men of the city gave short talks heartily praising President Wilson and his policy, in his note to Germany. S. F. Bowser, B. Paul Mossman, Judge O. N. Heaton and Attorney David Hogg were the speakers and all spoke on some phaze of the subject of Peace. Rev. C. H. Snashall, pastor of the church, made the closing address.

In the other Protestant churches of the city pastors spoke on subjects pertaining to peace and urged their listeners and members to do all in their power to again restore peace by supplication and prayer. The services in all the churches were largely attended on Sunday.

SAYS HUSBAND GOT THEIR BABY DRUNK

Frieda Bauermeister Makes Astounding Charge in Divorce Suit.

That her husband gave their baby, now but eighteen months old, intoxicating liquors to drink in such quantity that the infant became drunk is an astounding charge that stands out among many allegations in the complaint for divorce filed in the superior court by Frieda Bauermeister against Ernest C. Bauermeister. She says they were married in August, 1812, and separated during the present month, when her husband deserted, leaving her without means or credit and with two months' rent due on the house they had occupied. She says also he has beaten her with his fists and habitually called her vile and indecent names. An order restraining the defendant from molesting her or her household effects and the Summit City Soap works from paying him his wages has been issued.

Husband Files Cross Complaint.

Ernest Roth put some hot stuff in his cross complaint for divorce from Sarah Roth, who began action against him in the superior court some days ago, and charges that for the past five years she has been guilty of violating her marriage vows. He says that for six years she has tried to drive him from home so she could get a divorce that would enable her to associate with men. He charges also that she constantly uses vile and vulgar language to him in the presence of their children and has struck him in their presence. Roth says he moved from Ohio to Fort Wayne because his wife's conduct deprived him of a livelihood there and that he traded property there for a home here and that his wife procured the deed to the Fort Wayne property to be made in her name. He wants her restrained from disposing of more than her dower interest in it. They were married in 1892 and have four children aged 19, 16, 12 and 9 years, respectively.

Francis Bates is locked up at police headquarters on a charge of procuring and a woman who gives the name of Nellie Wagonhaus and her home as Chicago, is held on a charge of prostitution. The pair were arrested by Lieutenant Harry Grimme and Police Matron Fanny M. Winch Monday in upper rooms at 512½ Calhoun street, when the two officers called to make inquiry for a pair of delinquent girls. The Wagonhaus woman says she came here to see her little child in the St. Vincent orphan asylum, and while standing on Calhoun street one night last week was accosted by Bates, who asked her if she wanted work. She says Bates took her to his room and had since kept her there. Bates' wife died about three weeks ago in the rooms where he had been keeping the Chicago woman.

GIRL PRONOUNCED DEAD COMES TO LIFE; TELLS OF VISIT TO HEAVEN

Longview, Miss., May 17.—Mary Mc Cain, thirteen, girl-evangelist, in this out-of-the-way hamlet, is successfully conducting her first revival. She is now leaping into fame all over the south as the girl-evangelist who "died, went to heaven and came back!"

Physicians shake their heads when told that Mary died and came back to life, but her parents are emphatic in assertions that Mary was dead, at least to all outward appearances. She had no pulse, her heart was not beating and her body was cold and rigid, they declare.

Indications were that she had malarial fever, they say, and when she "died" her body was allowed to remain in bed at her home until the following morning, when it was to be embalmed.

But Mary McCain came "back to life" when her grief-stricken parents entered the room the next morning.

Mary complained of being cold and stiff, the parents relate, and then told them her wonderful story of the "trip to heaven."

The remarkable part of the case is that Mary had never been to Sunday school, never saw a Bible, her parents never owning one, and seldom heard the name of God except in a curse.

Her story follows:

"I took awfully sick one Sunday evening at 5 o'clock and went out of my head.

"I can't tell how I got to heaven, but when I came to myself God was holding His hand above my head and told me to come to my home that night and preach just as long as He gave me breath in my body.

"While I was in heaven I saw the angels with arms and wings spread just as far as one could see, and, when I came to myself, God had His hand in front of me until I came to a little step.

"I then stepped off and came straight to my home. When I came to, mother was sitting on the side of my bed and I turned over and seemed somewhat stiff and started to tell mother all about the angels and all things I saw in heaven.

"That night I went to church in Longview and started to preach, and I have been preaching ever since.

"Mother said the doctor told her I was dead and the spirit of God dwelleth within my soul."

Louisiana and Mississippi pastors are besieging the child to come to their towns and conduct revivals.

Mary McCain, thirteen-year-old evangelist, who claims God restored her to life after doctors declared her dead.

ON PLEA OF GUILTY CASE IS DISMISSED

Prosecutor Callahan Puts Unique Entry in City Court Record.

Asisstant Prosecutor Stephen A. Callahan caused a wholly unque entry to be made in the city court records Monday morning, when he moved that the case against George Salisbury, for public intoxication, be dismissed after the defendant had pleaded guilty. Salisbury was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his wife, Catherine Salisbury, who, when called to the stand as prosecuting witness, declined to testify that her husband was drunk, said she didn't know whether or not he was drunk and stated that he had disappeared and that she had merely wanted the police to find him.

"I didn't know what had become of him and I didn't know but what he had been killed," said Mrs. Salisbury.

The couple were wed but a month ago and when Mrs. Salisbury was called to testify she betrayed that she had not got used to her new name, for she gave her name as "Catherine Sunderland," and then hastily corrected her testimony. After Judge Kerr had dismissed the case the couple left the court room together.

Clubbed and Stabbed.

Elmer Smith, a colored man, was fined $10 and costs and given ninety days at the state penal farm for assault and battery on Charles Anderson, who resides at St. Mary's avenue and the Goshen road. The trouble took place at the Bobilya garage on Clinton street, where Smith broke a broom handle over Anderson's head and then stabbed him in the left breast with something pointed. Smith denied that he had used a knife and it is thought he may have jabbed the end of the splintered broom handle into Anderson. A painful, but not serious wound was inflicted. Smith has been in repeated trouble.

Crook Will Leave the City.

Leo E. Crook, held for ten days on a loitering charge, was given an indefinite continuance after a long and tedious hearing in the city court and promised to get out of the city at once. He is suspected of being a criminal. He had in his possession when arrested by Detective Sergeant Pappert an imported gold watch attached to a heavy gold chain, which bore two $20 dollar gold pieces as pendants. A letter written by Crook to a woman in Canada indicated that his business is crooked and it was shockingly obscene in its language. Crook had roundly abused the woman for not sending him more money. The letter had not been mailed and so is not actionable under the postal laws.

Other City Court Cases.

These drunks were disposed of: William Miller, David McCune, Albert Grim and Louis Walters, indefinitely continued; Mike Dennis, continued until Tuesday morning; John Husti, $1 and costs; Vern Worden, $1 and costs; Charles Wilson, $5 and costs; James Carmody, continued until Tuesday. Carmody is an incorrigible offender and he will probably be sent to the penal farm.

SUFFRAGISTS PUT TO ROUT BY WHITE MICE

Fight for Ballot Has Not Changed Woman's Natural Instincts.

New York, May 14.—It took a troop of trained white mice and a street faker less than ten seconds yesterday afternoon to refute the claim that the fight for the ballot is destroying the gentler nature of woman.

The usual relay of pretty workers of the woman suffrage party were in front of the party headquarters, No. 46 East Thirty-fourth street, selling The Voter.

At about 5 o'clock the street faker and his mice, "guaranteed to tell your fortune, past and future, for a dime, came along. He spread his paraphernalia, mice and all on the sidewalk in front of the suffrage headquarters.

A series of agonizing shrieks rose above the noise of the street traffic. Copies of The Voter were hastily dropped and there was a rush into headquarters.

A few moments later the yellow hangings were surreptitiously drawn back and four scared girls, all followers of "The Cause," peered cautiously out the window.

Finally the street faker gathered up his mice, remarked "business is bad," and marched on to the next stand.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17.—Joe Jeffers, Taylorville gunman and former henchman of Dunn M. His assistance to the government in prosecuting the machine leaders, and his conduct since his confinement in jail, won the privilege for him, which was first given him yesterday. TAKES POISON IN AUTO.

Clyde Burton is Found Dead When Car Reaches Mitchell.

Mitchell, Ind., May 17.—Clyde Burton, age thirty, committed suicide with poison here. He visited a sister living in the country and asked for money to settle a board bill, saying he expected to be arrested if it was not paid. His sister refused to give him money. Burton is said to have been somewhat under the influence of liquor, and started to return to Mitchell in an automobile with a constable. He occupied the back seat in the car. The constable noticed him drinking from a bottle, but supposed it was whisky, and paid no attention to the man's act. When the automobile arrived here, and Burton was asked to get out, he was dead.

Three of his friends, in the last two or three years, have taken their lives in the same way.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 17.—Serious crop damage reports from Missouri had a bullish effect today on the wheat market here. Assertions were received that Hessian fly was in every field in the western part of the state and that a heavy reduction of yield could apparently not be escaped. Widespread frost over the spring crop belt tended further to strengthen the market. After opening ½c off to a like advance, prices scored a material gain all around.

The close was unsettled at a rise of 1¾@4½c net.

Corn ascended with wheat. At first, however, the market was heavy, owing to favorable crop reports and because of easy cables. Opening prices, which were ½c to ⅝c lower, were followed by a rally well above Saturday night's level.

Quotations were firm, closing ⅝c to ½c net higher.

Oats merely reflected the action of other grain. Trade was of a scattering character.

Steadiness was the rule in provisions. The bulge in cereals seemed to offset lower prices for hogs.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, May 17.—Last Saturday's price recovery was resumed on a broad and general scale at the outset of today's trading, standard shares gaining one to two points, while war specialties rose three to seven, Bethlehem Steel making the greatest advance. Trading reflected confidence in a satisfactory adjustment of impending international complications, London's market for our shares showing firmness. Dealings were fairly large but without spetacular feature. United States Steel was the only stock to show unusual activity at the opening, a block of 4,600 shares being offered at 52½ to 53, against last week's close of 51⅝.

Initial gains were followed by slight recessions, resulting mainly from selling for profits. This condition in turn gave way to yet a higher level for some of the leaders, notably steel. Specialties, however, failed to retain more than a fair share of their advance, Bethlehem Steel, for instance, yielding three points. Trading slackened before the end of the first hour, becoming almost stagnant by midday. Bonds were strong.

Short covering checked a further decline in the final hour. The closing was firm.

FRENCH HAVE BROKEN GERMAN LINE, SAYS FRENCH

MILE OF ADVANCE IS CLAIMED BY BRITISH

Allies Win Some Advantage in West, But Germans Have Wrested Gains from Russians in East

Today's War News Given in Summary.

Further gains are reported by the allies today in the first great effort of the spring to roll back the German line now under way on the same ground where thousands of lives were lost last fall in the German attempt to break through to the English channel. According to Berlin the Germans are holding their ground.

The French war office announces that allied troops crossing the Yser canal took German positions on the eastern side at one point. A gain of ground near Hetsas also is claimed.

Following the recent British victories in German Southwest Africa, French forces have invaded successfully the German colony of Kamerun. A force from French West Africa completed the post of Esoka on May 11.

A German dirigible appeared over Calais last night and dropped bombs, killing two children.

The British admiralty announced that the Zeppelin which raided Ramsgate early this morning was pursued across the English channel by aeroplanes and apparently was damaged severely.

London, May 17.—(1:58 p. m.)—Field Marshal Sir John French has broken his silence in regard to the movements of the British army northwest of La Bassee with the announcement of an advance of nearly a mile into the German line. This, together with the continuance of the French thrusts both north of Ypres and southwest of La Bassee constitutes the outstanding features of the military today.

Military commentators here regard the British advance as a genuine break of the German line which if maintained must mean a retreat for a considerable section of the invaders' forces. Recapture of the bridge over the Yser canal at Steenstraete by the French deprives the Germans of their last connection with the west side of the waterway.

German assaults of the British position at Ypres seem to have spent themselves, at least for the moment, as Field Marshal French reports all has been quiet there for the last 48 hours.

Russian Defeat Severe.

Official reports from Petrograd do little to minimize the severity of the defeat which the Russians have experienced over practically the whole line from central Poland to the Carpathians. The victorious Germanic armies have robbed the Russians of most of the gains of the hard winter and early spring campaigns, with the exception of Przemysl, which is closely threatened on two sides by hostile forces. In the latest Petrograd communication there is a suggestion that the Russians are crouched behind the river San in readiness for one of these sudden movements such as previously have turned defeat into victory for them.

It is evident that the Austro-German forces will leave nothing undone in the attempt to force a crossing of the San. The Russians admit the loss of 50 guns during the retreat of their third army from the San but assert that most of them were destroyed.

New Zeppelin Attack.

Another Zeppelin attack on seaside resorts on the east coast early this morning accomplished no more than other recent air raids. British airmen, however, were awaiting the Zeppelin on this occasion and after a lively stern chase overtook it near West Hinder light ship. A vigorous attack by aeroplanes routed the Zeppelin, which when last seen had its tail down and appeared to have been damaged severely.

Germany's reply to America and Italy's next step divide diplomatic interest. Nothing has reached London to dissipate the impression that Germany's answer will be more or less negative. As to Italy the return of the Salandra government with its policy intact and enormously strengthened by public support, is accepted in England as confirming the belief that Italy will enter the war on the side of the allies.

Thomas J. McNamara, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty, announced in reply to a question in the house of commons today that 460,628 tons of British shipping, other than warships, had been sunk or captured by the Germany navy since the outbreak of the war.

TO AVOID HEAVY LOSS.

Germans Withdraw Smaller Forces to Main Positions on Canal.

Berlin, May 17.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—German army headquarters today gave out a report on the progress of hostilities reading: "In the eastern war theatre:

"North of Ypres and to the west of the canal near Steenstraete and Hetsas the Germans yesterday gave up their advanced positions and, to avoid losses from the strong artillery fire of the enemy, drew back their smaller forces to the main positions on the eastern bank of the canal.

"South of Neuve Chapelle the British still hold parts of the front trench taken May 15. The fighting continues north of Arras. Near Ablain and Neuville French attacks were repulsed with heavy losses for the enemy.

"German airships have successfully attacked the seaports of Dover and Calais."

(Dispatches last night from England set forth that a hostile air craft had appeared over Dover, but for a short time only and no mention of an attack was made. An airship, possibly the same vessel, did deliver an attack upon Ramsgate, 20 miles north of Dover, dropping forty bombs.)

"In the southeastern war theatre: The German advance between the Pilica river and the upper Vistula and along the front from Sambor to Stry and Stanislau continues. The river San has been crossed at several places near Jaroslau and to the northward. There is fighting going on around Przemysl."

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF THE SCOTTISH RITE

Indianapolis, May 17.—Every train and interurban car brought to Indianapolis today Scottish Rite Masons from all parts of the state to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the lodge in the valley of Indianapolis which began today and will continue through Thursday. The morning was taken up with the registration of members and visitors at the temple. At noon there was a luncheon for candidates, followed with an address to the candidates by Charles W. Fairbank.

While the chief feature of the convention this week is the celebration of the golden jubilee of the birth of the rite in Indianapolis, which is to be marked by various functions, this part of the official program does not overshadow the conferring of degrees, which on this occasion is made especially notable on account of the fact that the class to receive the grades will number about 500.

Gerard Makes Report on Delivery of Note

Washington, May 17.—Ambassador Gerard at Berlin today notified the state department of the delivery of the American note to the German foreign office. It was the first official notification that the note had arrived at its destination, although its delivery had been reported in news dispatches.

The American government still was without advices early today indicating the nature of Germany's reply to the Lusitania note. Administration officials are reserving comment as to the probable attitude of the German government, but in diplomatic circles speculation still was rife.

Intimations by diplomats friendly to Germany that her answer might be an offer to suspend attacks without warning on merchant ships if the United States would renew its informal proposals for unrestricted passage of foodstuffs to Germany's civilian population have aroused keen interest. Officials declare the United States will not recede from its rights under international law, but intimate that if Germany acquiesces in the American position, the United States probably will press its contention of its right to ship foodstuffs to Germany. This matter still is under diplomatic discussion.

It is thought probable also that an understanding might be reached giving Germany definite assurances that no merchant ships leaving American ports would be armed, making it possible for submarine commanders to exercise the right of visit and search with impunity.

DESTRUCTION IN WAKE OF SATURDAY NIGHT'S STORM.

Three above pictures illustrate damage typical of that done by the storm all over the northern part of Allen county. The large barn in the first picture is on the farm of John Lapp, in Cedar Creek township, and even when the photograph was taken the owner and his neighbor were attempting to dig out some pigs that were imprisoned under the wreckage. Several head of cattle were killed here.

The scene in No. 2 is the barn of Mrs. Victor Delegrange, most of which was blown into the roadway. Road Supervisor Andrew Blume and his assistants are at work here.

Several head of cattle were killed in the destruction of the tremendous barn shown in No. 3. It was the property of Henry Lapp, and the loss here was great.

DUMBA AND BRYAN HOLD CONFERENCE

The Austrian Ambassador Would Assist in Peaceful Settlement.

Washington, May 17.—Dr. Constantine Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, had a long conference today with Secretary Bryan and other state department officials. While the ambassador would not discuss the object of his call the impression prevailed in well informed circles that he had endeavored to sound out feeling with a view toward assisting in a peaceful settlement of the situation with Germany.

It is known that the Austrian ambassador and Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, have been in close consultation for several days and that Austria is watching with deep interest the course of events between the United States and her ally, throwing her influence in the direction of preventing any rupture in friendly relations.

The seriousness of the sinking of the Lusitania with the loss of American lives, the intense feeling it has aroused in the United States and the country

CURIOSITY OF WOMAN UNCOVERS HIDDEN CASH

Richmond, Ind., May 17.—Mrs. Daniel Loy, a widow in modest circumstances in Eaton, Ohio, near here, is $1,600 richer through the curiosity of Mrs. A. L. Harris, wife of a former governor of Ohio. Mrs. Harris, a neighbor, entered the Loy cellar to get some article of food for Mrs. Loy, who is ill. Buried under a mass of rubbish she found several fruit jars filled with currency amounting to more than $1,600. The money had been accumulated and hidden there by Mr. Loy, a frugal gardener who died two years ago.

6,000 DEAD IN MASSACRE

Frightful Slaughter of Armenians by Turks and Kurds at Van.

RUSSIAN CONSUL REPORTS ATROCITY

Armenians Defending Themselves, But Plight is Desperate.

London, May 17.—(2:15 p. m.)—Six thousand Armenians have been massacred at Van, in Armenia, Asiatic Turkey, according to a dispatch received in official quarters in London today from the Russian consul at Urumiah, Persia. This message is dated May 15. It adds that the Armenians are defending themselves to the utmost against the Turks and Kurds arrayed against them, but that help is urgently needed.

News dispatches from Persia, Armenia and trans-Caucasia in Russia have set forth for several weeks that the position of the Armenians in Turkey as well as in northwestern Persia was one of grave danger, but no message has conveyed any indication of such extensive massacring as does this report to London. If it is true, the Armenian situation has entered upon a period which threatens to rival the conditions of 1895.

Kurds and Turks have been persecuting the Armenian residents of these localities for several months. Many have been killed, while large numbers have been driven away as slaves. The city of Van has normally 30,000 inhabitants. It is the seat of an important American mission, and the missionaries have taken an active part in the protection of Armc-

BURGLAR IS READY TO GO OUT FISHIN'

A burglar who entered the F. W. Krift store, 1604 Sherman street, some time Sunday night, probably is out fishing. He stole 3,000 fish hooks of various sorts and sizes, two dozen catch lines, two balls of green lines, a box of sinkers, a box of silk lines, three big reels, three artificial baits, a carton of trolling spoons and some other angling things, besides a quantity of candy. Detective Sergeant Spillner, who investigated the case, believes it was the work of boys. Entrance was gained through a side window of the store.

TOLEDO BUSINESS MEN HERE TUESDAY

A meeting of the entertainment committee of the Commercial club will be held Monday evening at which time final arrangements will be made for the visit of the members of the Wholesale Merchants' and Manufacturers' board of Toledo. The visitors will arrive here at 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, over the Wabash and remain in Fort Wayne over night, leaving at 6:20 o'clock Wednesday morning for Huntington, and other points in Indiana.

About sixty of the largest manufacturing and jobbing concerns in Toledo will be represented, the object of the trip being to promote a better and more intimate relationship between the citizens of the various cities visited and the business men of Toledo.

SECURITY LEAGUE BREAKING IN.

The National Security league, an organization that is working to improve the national defenses, wants to start its work and organize a branch in Fort Wayne and Secretary Spencer, secretary of the committee on extension and branches, has written a letter to Mayor Hosey requesting him to furnished the names of ten prominent citizens who will be likely to undertake the organization of a branch here.

WIND STORM PLAYS HAVOC

Damage in Allen County by Saturday Night's Blow May Be $200,000.

MANY BARNS AND ORCHARDS LEVELED

St. Joseph and Cedar Creek Townships Suffer Most Heavily.

Many barns were completely demolished, much stock killed, fine orchards ruined, telephone and telegraph wires blown down and lives were endangered in a terrific wind storm that visited Allen county between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night.

The storm seemed to pass through the county in a northeasterly direction, playing havoc in its path and causing damage conservatively estimated at $200,000. Beyond any doubt the storm was one of the worst that has ever visited Allen county.

Much damage was done in surrounding counties and it is estimated that northern Indiana suffered to the extent of half a million dollars.

Although the wind blew a terrific gale and much rain fell, Fort Wayne escaped serious damage. Residents of the city had little idea of the great damage that was being wrought within a radius of a few miles.

KENT BLAIR DIES AT PHOENIX, ARIZ

Kent Blair, aged 34 years, a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Blair, of this city, died Sunday at Phoenix, Arizona, where he had gone nearly a year and a half ago in search of better health. At first the change of climate seemed to benefit him but later he took a turn for the worse. The message announcing his death was received here Sunday evening.

The deceased had been a resident of Fort Wayne ever since he was two years old and was well known in the city. He was a member of the Elks' lodge and also a thirty-second degree mason. He was an active member of the First Presbyterian church. For some years after graduating from an eastern college he was assistant ticket agent at the Nickel Plate station in Fort Wayne.

The remains will not be brought to Fort Wayne but will be taken directly to Lima, Ohio, where funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Besides the parents he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harry Hattersley, of this city.

CONDITION IS CRITICAL.

Charles Heaston Suffers Serious Injuries When Kicked by Horse.

Charles Heaston, a hostler employed by the Pape Furniture company, remains in a critical condition at St. Joseph hospital, where he was removed Saturday morning at 7 o'clock when one of a team of horses which he was watering kicked him, breaking his arm and right leg and inflicting a deep gash in his head.

After being injured he lay unconscious for some time before he was able to call for help. The police ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the hospital where his injuries were treated. Mr. Heaston's son, Edward, of Marion, O., has been notified of his father's misfortune and he was expected to arrive in the city Monday evening.

El Paso, Texas, May 17.—Gen. Antonio Villa, minor commander and a brother of the northern leader, was shot through the head and probably fatally wounded, and seven men were killed, among them some Villa officers, as the result of a political dispute in a public place at Chihuahua City last night, according to reports reaching here today.

PRESIDENT LAUDS NAVY

Expresses Our Ideals, Says Wilson, in Address in New York.

NOTABLE SCENES MARK THE REVIEW

Cheering Throngs Acclaim President at Notable Spectacle.

New York, May 17.—President Wilson delivered a patriotic address on the American flag and the protection it carries for Americans at a luncheon given here today in his honor by the New York citizens' committee for the reception of the Atlantic fleet.

When the president arose to speak soon after reviewing the parade of sailors and marines from the fleet he was enthusiastically cheered. Five hundred army and navy officers and other guests jumped to their feet and applauded.

All the officers were in full dress uniform. Alton B. Parker, Jacob Schiff, Joseph H. Choate, August Belmont and many other prominent New Yorkers were among those present. Acting Mayor George McAneny introduced the president.

Navy Expresses Ideals.

The president declared that the luncheon was not the occasion at which it was wise for him to make an extended address. He said he had always had a deep interest in the navy. "It is right," he said, "that America should have a great navy to express its character. The navy of the United States," the president said, "expresses our ideals. The fleet lying here at New York is a great fleet and has nothing of bluster about it.

"The great thing about America is that it wants no territory and questions no other nation's honor. We stand for humanity and for the things that humanity wants."

Speaking of the Flag.

Speaking of the flag, the president asserted that it typified all that was best in the world.

"The mission of America," he went on, "is what her soldiers and sailors should think of. They have nothing to do with shaping of policies. Sometimes those who run the United States forget the principles it was founded on, but the people themselves never forget it.

"When a crisis occurs in this country it is as if you put your finger on the pulse of the nation, as if you put your hand on the pulse of a dynamo.

"We lift no threats against any nation or class in the United States. This fleet in the river is a great solemn evidence that force of America is the force of moral principle. There is nothing else for which she will contend."

At the conclusion of his address President Wilson left the hotel to inspect the fleet lying at anchor in the Hudson river.

Ran Into a Storm; Many Seasick.

The Mayflower's arrival last night instead of this morning, as planned, was explained today. The yacht ran into a storm off the New Jersey coast yesterday. Nearly every one in the president's party became sick, the chief sufferers being Secretary Tumulty and Charles Swem, the president's stenographer. For a time Dr. Grayson, the white house physician, was busy ministering to them. The president showed the effects of the voyage less than other members of the party, but did not feel well, he said.

FLEET GROOMED FOR REVIEW.

Notable Scenes Mark President's Presence in New York.

New York, May 17.—A mighty armada of battleships, destroyers, submarines and auxiliary craft, the nation's bulwark in case of war swung at anchor in the Hudson river today groomed for review by the president of the United States. The most powerful array of fighting ships ever assembled in an American port, the fleet stretches for four miles in a double line of solemn gray but touched with gayer colors where pennants and ensigns streamed from fighting tops and mastheads in honor of the occasion.

Each battleship was in readiness to thunder out the presidental salute of 21 guns when the navy yacht Mayflower, with the president on the bridge passed them during the afternoon.

President Arrives.

Convoyed by the cruiser Baltimore the Mayflower, bringing the president from Washington, reached the harbor last night and after a short halt near Tompkinsville steamed up the river to anchorage off West Forty-first street. It was after midnight when she arrived there and the president and his party, expecting a long day of ceremonies had retired for the night. A squad of policemen and a patrol guard from Secretary Daniels' yacht, the Dolphin, remained on guard at the Forty-first street landing throughout the night.

The naval review preceded in the forenoon by a land parade, was on the program as the chief ceremonial feature of the ten days' visit of the Atlantic fleet to this port. Three times since the ships of Admiral Dewey returned from the victory of Manila bay, 17 years ago, has New York been the formal host of a United States fleet but never since Dewey's return has the presence of the warships here aroused great-

DIE MAY BE CAST TODAY

Italian Cabinet is Called in Session to Discuss War Crisis.

GERMANS DISPUTE CLAIMS OF ALLIES

Deny British Report That Kaiser's Line in West Has Been Broken.

London, May 17.—Italy's long awaited decision for or against war may be reached today. Premier Salandra has called a meeting of the cabinet, the first since the political crisis, which resulted in the retention in office of the Salandra ministry. The final decision may be postponed, however, until the assembling of parliament, set for Thursday.

All Italy is in a state of feverish excitement, and in the temper of the people is represented as overwhelmingly in favor of war. Clashes between Austrian and Italian frontier guards are reported. News dispatches from the border say that an uprising has occurred in Trieste, one of the principal Austrian cities claimed by Italy. A crowd composed largely of women, became so violent in anti-Austrian demonstrations that it was charged by troops, occasioning the death of forty-seven women and injury of more than 300.

Disputed By Germans.

Another sudden thrust at the German line— this time just north of La Bassee —has been made by the allies, and, according to the French and British official reports, has been attended with conspicuous success. The claim of the British that the German line was broken down over the greater part of a two mile section is disputed, however, by the German war office, which says all attacks of the allies were repulsed. The operations now in progress are characterized as the most important of any since last fall.

A Berlin dispatch asserts the Russians have suffered very heavy losses in Calisia, notwithstanding their denials. The Austrians apparently have made a further slight gain, but the Russians strongly placed on the River Son are offering stubborn resistance. A great battle is expected along the river.

RUBBER BOOTS SAVES TWO FROM TRAGIC END

Had it not been for a pair of rubber boots which W. D. Holterman, cashier of the Fort Wayne Drug company, was wearing, he and his son, Louis, aged 13, would both have been killed Saturday evening when the boy became entangled in a wire fence which was charged with a heavy voltage of electricity. Immediately after the wind and electrical storm Saturday evening the father and son went out to see if the valuable chickens on the farm were safe. When they reached the wire fence, which surrounds the chicken house, Mr. Holterman climbed over and Louis started to follow.

The storm had broken the trolly wire of the Ohio Electric Railway company, which had fallen across the wire fence. Mr. Holterman was startled by a cry from his son and on looking back surmised what the trouble was when he saw the youth writhing in pain.

Without thinking what the result might be, nor realizing that his boots would afford him protection, Mr. Holterman rushed to his son's assistance. The boy was freed immediately. The boy suffered slight burns, but was not rendered unconscious and has nearly recovered from the shock.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Getz were guests of relatives at Garrett over Sunday.

St. Joseph and Cedar Creek townships probably suffered the worst. Hundreds of big trees were blown down, a number of the country roads being blockaded.

Struck By Lightning.

In attempting to get his stock out of the barn, Herman Beckman, residing in St. Joe township, was struck by lightning and temporarily paralyzed. His condition is not regarded as serious. Several sheds on his farm were blown over and much damage was done to his timber.

One of the remarkable features of the storm was the fact that but little damage was done to farm houses, except the blowing over of chimneys. Barnes were down in every direction and though in many instances they were located but a short distance from the house, they escaped or otherwise there would have doubtless been some fatalities.

Many cattle were killed, being caught underneath the falling timbers. Much stock was injured so badly that it had to be killed.

The large barn of Mrs. Victor Delagrange nine miles northeast of Fort Wayne, in St. Joseph township, was blown across the road. The large shed nearby in which Victor Delagrange met death a few weeks ago, when he was caught in a belt of a gasoline engine, was not damaged.

A short distance east on the farm of Wesley Smith, on the township line between St. Joseph and Cedar Creek township, another large barn was laid low. The greatest damage seemed to have been done along this road for a distance of about two or three miles.

The large bank barn on the farm of Henry Lapp, on the township line, occupied by Ezra Kiser, was blown flat, two cows killed, another cow had its back broken and will have to be killed and two or three head of hogs. Mr. Lapp had recently purchased much new farm machinery, all of which was damaged.

At the John Lapp Farm.

Even greater damage was done at the farm of John Lapp, brother of Henry Lapp, where the large barn was blown down, three cows killed and many trees in the orchard uprooted. In the front yard was a large apple tree, which was torn up by its roots and blown across the tops of some trees and dropped in a field a distance of two hundred yards away. Mr. Lapp had a large rocking chair on his front porch, which the wind picked up and carried to the rear of the house. No damage was done to the house, however, which is a large brick structure.

"I was just read for bed when the storm visited this section," Mr. Lapp told a Sentinel reporter. "The lightning flashed furiously and it sounded like every window pane in my house would be broken. I was afraid my house would go. Just as I looked out there was another flash of lightning and I could see that my barn was down."

Mr. Lapp, assisted by Mrs. Lapp, worked until almost daylight in getting his horses out from under the fallen timbers and rubbish. Outside of a few scratches the horses were not injured in the least, although they were prisoners and scarcely able to move for several hours.

The roof on the barn of Mrs. Joseph Delagrange, on the township line, was blown off and scattered over a nearby field. The wind played havoc to the orchard on the W. H. Northrup farm, while a part of the barn on the farm of Phil. Roush in St. Joe township was blown down. One of his horses was struck by a fallen timber, breaking its leg.

The barn on the John Henry farm was blown down, two cows and 100 chickens being killed. Four horses were rescued.

Grabill Is Visited.

Much damage was done in the little town of Grabill. More than a dozen couples were at the skating rink when the storm made its appearance. Part of the tin roof was blown off, which put an end to their festivities.

The new house of Willard Snyder in Grabill which was under construction was blown down, the storm in a few minutes undoing the work that had required several weeks for skilled workmen to do.

George Klopfenstein had his horse tied to the rack in Grabill when the storm came along, unhitched the buggy from the horse and took it down the street for a distance of 100 feet, where it was left a mass of ruins.

The barn belonging to Hiram Roller, north of Harlan, was blown from its foundation. Mrs. Roller is ex-trustee of Springfield township. The silos on the farms of Elmer Cook and John Watters in St. Joe township were carried away and hundreds of rods of fence were twisted from the ground.

At the State School.

Buildings on the farm of the Indiana school for feeble-minded youth were damaged to the extent of about $2,500. The east half of the brick dairy barn, a building 150x24 feet, was blown completely from the foundation, while the roof was carried into a nearby field a distance of fifty feet. The corn crib was wrecked and the frame wagon barn was lifted from its foundation and carried a distance of about thirty feet to the south. Much damage was done to the orchard, many trees being uprooted and splintered. About forty trees in the woods and grove near the Colonial building were torn out by their roots. One cow was injured.

Much Damage at Roanoke.

Much damage was done in and around Roanoke. Every electric light and telephone was put out of commission, and many trees were blown down. The barn of Fremont Thrasher, one-half mile west of Roanoke, was partly wrecked, while several large trees in front of the residence of Esley Ruppert were blown down, a large force of men working for several hours to remove the debris. The barn on the Roy Weaver farm south of Roanoke was blown down.

Storm Visits New Haven.

New Haven did not escape. The new garage building recently completed by Herman Hockemeyer was badly damaged and the barn of Ernest Cain is a total wreck. Hundreds of trees were uprooted. A corn crib on the rear of the lot of Dr. L. S. Null was blown in many directions. Practically all telephone and telegraph wires were blown down.

Twenty-seven fruit trees on the farm of George L. Ashley, a real estate dealer of this city, were blown down, causing a loss estimated at $500.

Ten head of cattle was killed on the farm of Arthur Fust between Roanoke and Huntington. The cattle belonged to Warren Sponhauer, a tenant.

Very little cyclone or tornado insurance was carried by the farmers, who suffered the most damage.

Andrew Blume, who lives about eight miles from Fort Wayne, on the St. Joe road, was out early opening the roads. He is a deputy county road supervisor and has about thirty miles of road to look after. Many trees in his woods were uprooted, which was the only damage done on his farm, although many of his neighbors were not so fortunate.

Robison Park Escapes.

Robison park escaped with only one tree being uprooted, although about sixty poles were blown down along the track of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line to the park. Several days will be required to put the line in shape for operation again. Much damage was done to the high tension wires on all the electric lines out of Fort Wayne and linemen will be busy for several days making repairs.

Many trees along Parnell avenue were blown down. A chicken coop belonging to Frank Sarazen, who lives on Parnell avenue, was lifted from its foundation and carried to the yard of Andy Entrodacher, who lives next door. The barn on the farm of Henry Berning, in St. Joe township, was blown to the ground and much damage was done to his orchard. Hundreds of wind mills were blown down.

The chimneys were blown from the homes of Peter Schinkel and David Winburn, on Franklin avenue, and a chimney was torn from the house of 1226 Jessie street, also damaging a part of the roof.

Hundreds of telephones of the Home Telephone and Telegraph and the Central Union Telephone companies were put out of commission throughout the county and several days will be required before the service can be put back in normal condition. Some damage also was done to the Postal and Western Union Telegraph companies.

Hail is reported to have fallen in some sections during the storm. Considerable damage was done to the alfalfa, clover and oats crops.

In Milan Township.

Much damage was done in Milan township, although not to compare with the damage wrought in St. Joe and Cedar Creek townships. The barn, chicken house, wagon shed and wind mill on the farm of Judge Richard K. Erwin were blown down. The wind blew the barn of A. M. Hartzell from its foundation. He is president of the state bank at New Haven. The Hartzell barn was filled with farm machinery, all of which was more or less damaged.

An empty house at the end of Franklin street, in Bloomingdale, was lifted from its foundation by the terrific wind and carried for some distance down the Goshen road. Considerable damage is reported in Washington township.

A silo and a dozen fruit trees were blown down on the Dierdorf Dairy farm, three and one-half miles west of Fort Wayne. The barn of Joseph Mayhue, in St. Joe township, was badly demolished.

According to Prognosticator McDonough about .34 inches of rain fell during the storm of Saturday night and the highest velocity of the wind reached thirty-eight miles.

Huntington county suffered losses estimated at $100,000. Much damage also was done in Whitley, Kosciusko, Wells and DeKalb counties.

Breaks Barn in Two.

A barn belonging to Joseph Mettker, of The Sentinel stereotyping department, on his place four miles east of the city, was broken in two, and part of it was thrown around behind the other. A shed less than fifty feet away was untouched, but a chicken coop was picked up and carried for three hundred feet. In cleaning away some of the debris, Sunday morning, Mettker was bitten by a dog causing a painful wound, although no serious results are anticipated.

Several large trees were blown across the stables in Centlivre park where valuable racing horses are housed, slightly damaging the structure. None of the horses was injured. Some of the fence at the track was taken away by the wind.

A large maple tree in front of the home of Peter J. Scheid, 427 East DeWald street, was blown over, falling on a magnificent cherry tree in Mr. Scheid's yard, which was the pride of the family because of its beauty and the quality of its fruit. The shade tree was nearly two feet in diameter.

CANAL BUISNESS IN MARCH SETS RECORD

Tremendous Total of Cargoes Passed Through Big Waterway.

Washington, May 17.—Record breaking cargoes passing through the Panama canal in March, according to war department statisticians, which have filled up approximately 1,800 freight trains of 20 cars each. These trains, it is estimated, would have totalled 275 miles in length or filled five parallel tracks from Panama to Colon. Had this freight been transported across the isthmus in freight trains, it would have required a train every forty-eight minutes, or fifty-eight trains a day.

The cargo handled in March through the canal aggregated 635,057 tons. This is almost 99 per cent. of the through freight hauled over the Panama railroad during the fiscal year ending last June and forty thousand tons more than the through freight handled by the road during the previous fiscal year. The Panama railroad was supposed to have the heaviest traffic per mile of all the railroads of the world, it was said.

The average loading of cargo-carrying vessels through the canal in March was 5,040 tons.

LIGONIER CONCERN TO REBUILD.

Ligonier, Ind., May 17.—The entire plant of the Banta-Bender company of this city, manufacturers of refrigerators, incubators, etc., was destroyed by fire Saturday. Loss of between $40,000 and $50,000 is estimated, with total insurance protection of $19,250. Authorized announcement is made that the concern will be rebuilt at once on land located near the New York Central railway tracks. It required but one hour for the flames to consume the three-story brick structure, in which from 35 to 40 men were given employment. At one time it was feared the fire would spread to the business section and preparations were made to get help from Goshen, Elkhart and other towns. When Ligonier firemen finally gained control of the situation, the flames were feeding on a low warehouse.

TELLS THE STORY OF CHILD'S SHAME

Harry G. Dennis Makes It Clear His Daughter is Badly Brought Up.

The Harry G. Dennis who, in a Cincinnati court room last Friday caused a sensation by declaring that Thelma Cohen, a 17-year-old wife then suing for divorce, was his long lost daughter, has been identified as a resident of Fort Wayne with domicile at 923 Washington boulevard west. Dennis returned to Fort Wayne Saturday and he relates the story of his first marriage, the birth of his daughter, the betrayal of his honor by his wife, who absconded with a man he had aided and the taking along with them of the daughter who, according to the story of Dennis, has been compelled by her mother to lead a life of shame.

Dennis says he married his first wife in Pinkneyville, Ill., where she was a country hotel waitress, nineteen years ago. Within the year a child was born. When the child was five years old Dennis and his family were residing in Cleveland. There, one day, Dennis picked up a stranger in the street, who was down on his luck, listened to his story, took him home, gave him a place to stay and allowed him to remain. Dennis had nourished a viper in his bosom, for the man won the affections of Mrs. Dennis and in a few weeks the pair ran away together, taking the child, Thelma, and most of the Dennis domestic belongings. The man, Dennis says, was Rex J. Jeffcott, with whom Mrs. Dennis still sticks. For twelve years Dennis says he hunted for the pair, designing to get possession of his child. Once he saw her in New York among a group of children in Morningside park and talked with her, but she got away from him. Then in Fort Wayne, two months ago, Dennis saw Jeffcott on the street. Dennis learned that the betrayer of his home was here as the manager of the Indian Land School company, which had an exhibition car at the Nickel Plate station. Jeffcott also recognized Dennis and fled, but was followed to the Hartman house, on Washington boulevard west, where later Dennis learned that Jeffcott was staying with a woman and 17-year-old girl. Through the present Mrs. Dennis—to whom Mr. Dennis was married six years ago, after obtaining a divorce from his runaway wife—an interview was procured with the girl and she was proved to be the long lost daughter and told of the life her mother had made her lead, of her marriage to Kenneth Cohen, in Cincinnati—a match said to have been forced by her mother—of the life of shame her mother had compelled her to lead and of the pending divorce suit the wicked mother had put her under compulsion to seek.

Dennis will go to Cincinnati this week to petition the juvenile court for possession of his daughter. Her marriage to Cohen has been annulled on the ground that both the girl and her husband were not of legal age at the time they procured license and perjured themselves to get married.

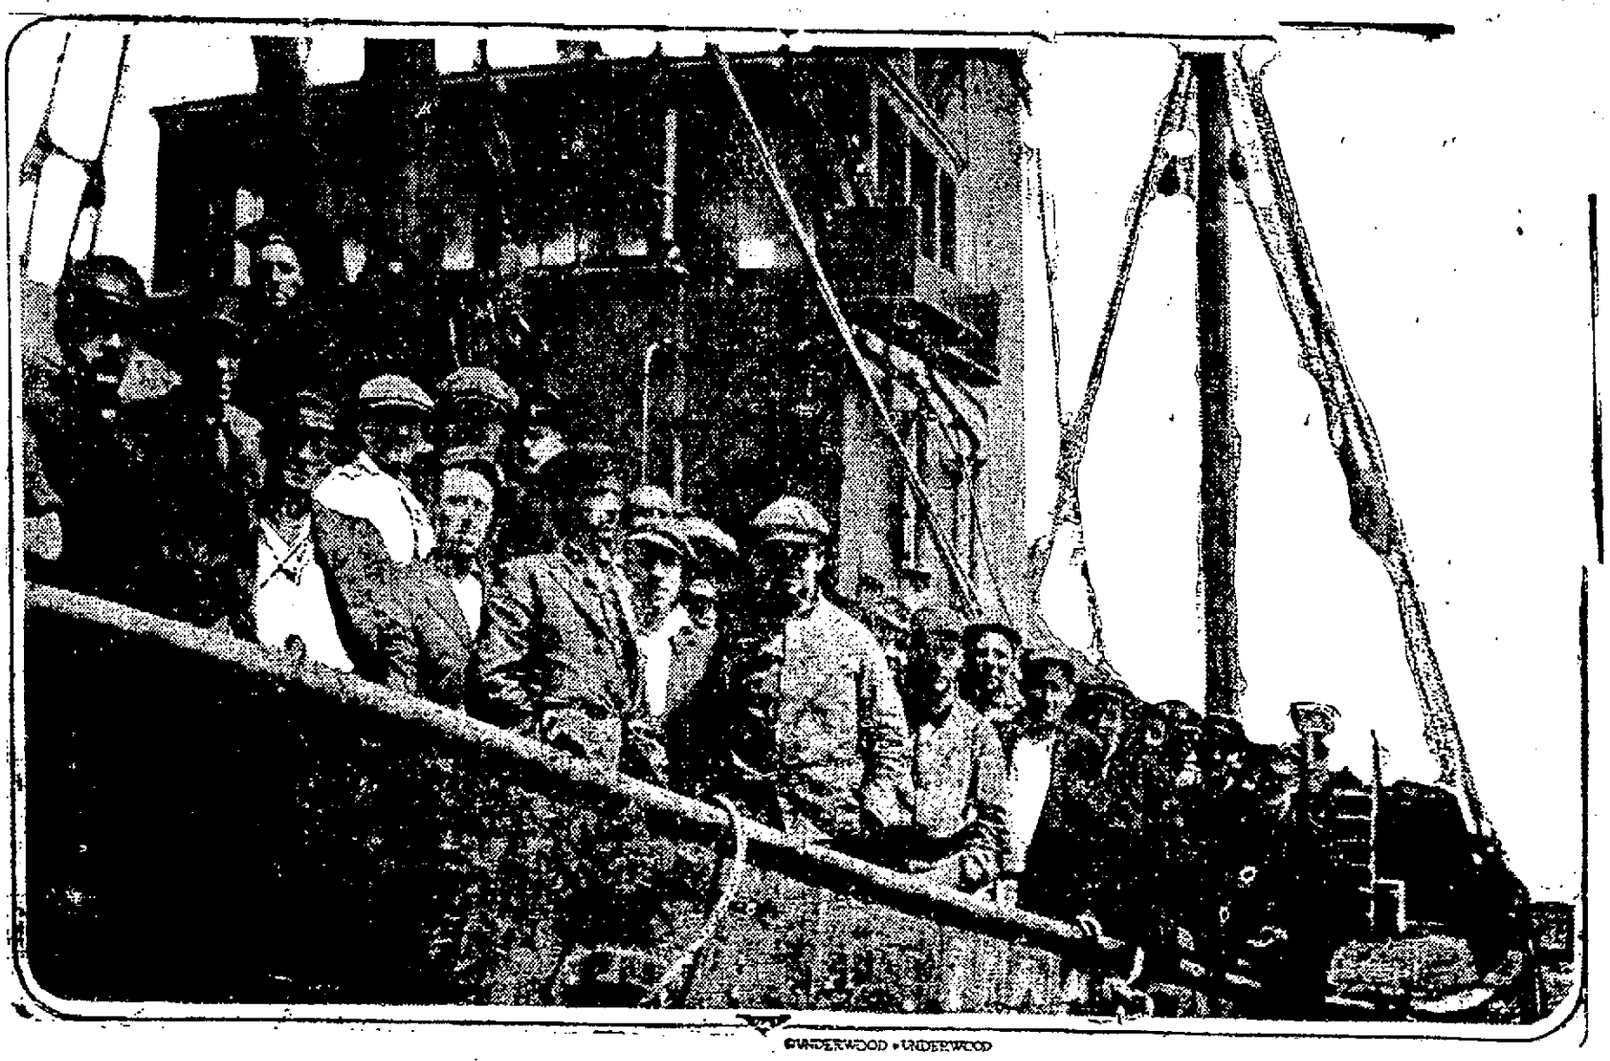
Gulflight's Crew on Deck of Rescue Boat After Narrow Escape From Davy Jones' Locker



UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

These Americans might have lost their lives had their vessel, the Gulflight, gone down as did the Lusitania. The photograph shows all but three of crew of the torpedoed ship on board a British patrol boat in St. Mary's harbor, Scilly Islands. The missing three are the captain, who died of heart failure, and two seamen, who jumped overboard when the Gulflight was torpedoed.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Psalm 27:1-14.

1 The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me to eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell.

3 Though a host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident.

4 One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his pavilion: in the secret of his tabernacle shall he hide me; he shall set me up upon a rock.

6 And now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle sacrifices of joy; I will sing, yea, I will sing praises unto the Lord.

7 Hear, O Lord, when I cry with my voice: have mercy also upon me, and answer me.

8 When thou saidst, Seek ye my face; my heart said unto thee, Thy face, Lord, will I seek.

9 Hide not thy face far from me; put not thy servant away in anger: thou hast been my help; leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation.

10 When my father and my mother forsake me, then the Lord will take me up.

11 Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path, because of mine enemies.

12 Deliver me not over unto the will of mine enemies: for false witnesses are arisen up against me, and such as breathe out cruelty.

13 I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living.

14 Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart: wait, I say, on the Lord.

Garrison's Military Program

It is now clearly evident, despite the agitation for disarmament and the protest against any course that smacks of militarism, that congress when it meets in December, will be importuned to take decisive steps toward what has been termed military and naval preparedness in the United States, urged by many men of influence as the surest guaranty of peace. There will be extremists, of course, who will favor going to a limit which most folk will insist is beyond all reason, and in the light of present probability the program of Secretary of War Garrison is the one most likely to receive favorable consideration. That program is, in brief, as follows:

1.—Fill up immediately the existing organizations which comprise the aggregate mobile army.

2.—Lay the foundation for a reserve army.

3.—Adopt some method for the training of more civilians to become officers in case of necessity.

4.—Make provision for additional guns and munitions of war of all kinds.

It would require 25,000 men to fill up the organizations to their full strength. The secretary of war intends to ask for authorization to enlist these men as soon as the legislative body comes together. He will also ask for authorization to obtain 1,000 more officers. For one reason or another more than 20 per cent. of the line officers of the army are always away from their commands. This situation, which, it is pointed out, is bound to continue, making it imperative, the secretary of war thinks, that an additional 1,000 officers should be provided.

But the activity in the army branch will represent probably only the smaller division of the problem. The navy is also to be vastly augmented if those who demand it have their way. There are numerous indications that a new propaganda in favor of enormous expenditures by the congress for military preparedness both on land and sea will soon be under way. The congress will have to choose between the extremists and the secretary of war, who reflects the conservative view.

Park commissioners at Indianapolis are taking steps to enforce the city ordinance requiring the use of dimming devices on automobile lights in the parks and driveways of that city, regardless of the attitude of the police in other sections of the city. They very correctly say that the excessively bright automobile lights are blinding both pedestrians and the drivers of oncoming cars are highly conducive to accidents, and while the police have chosen to permit drivers to ignore the ordinance on the streets of the city, it will be enforced in the parks. There is as yet, we believe, no ordinance in Fort Wayne regulating the use of the high-powered lights on automobiles; but the necessity for it is becoming increasingly apparent each day.

Friends of some of the convicted Terre Haute election gangsters have already started activity in the effort to secure their release from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth on parole, though the ink used to inscribe their names on the prison register is barely dry. In all probability they are going to have some little difficulty in inducing the parole authorities to accept the view that the brief term already served is sufficient to satisfy the ends of justice. They ought to appreciate the fact that trial and conviction in a federal court is not a joke.

Billy Sunday has accepted the urgent invitation to come to Chicago for an evangelistic campaign, and it is announced that the start of the moral clean-up in that city will occur early in 1917. The evangelist has no earlier date open, and, besides, he will need all the intervening time for the building of the 42-centimeter vacuum cleaners that will be equal to the big ask before him in Chicago.

For the first time since Fort Wayne was a small village, the Bluffton road out of this city is to be freed from road-houses by the refusal of the commissioners to renew the license of the Gephart place. Every institution of this character wiped out is a distinct gain to Allen county. The Sentinel trusts the officials will insist on retaining the gain won by refusing to license any other in its place.

The law of compensation is still working. Damage from the big storm Saturday evening is extensive in Allen county, but the resulting boom in business will doubtless cheer the drooping heart of the tornado insurance agent who finds no little profit in the prospect rather than the actuality of the time-honored ill winds.

ADJUSTING HOME RELATIONS.

(Indiana Daily Times.)

Judge Anita Grish, of the court of domestic relations, at Jersey City, N. J., handles "questions no man can settle." She believes she has found a woman's sphere; that she has found one line of public service to which woman and woman alone is peculiarly adapted. Judge Anita Grish is arbiter between woman and man; the go-between who settles quarrels of wife and husband.

In this court of domestic relations, conducted for the last seven months by a woman, the forms of law, and the fine technicalities of hoary precedent do not count for much. Judge Grish deals humanly with the human actualities of married life and strife. In the twenty or more cases handled each week by Judge Grish no lawyers appear and no laws are invoked or even mentioned. The press is not present. Both the husband and wife must be on hand, however, and there is a lot of straight talk in the privacy of this novel tribunal.

In the old days it was the custom to send the recalcitrant husband to jail, the wife would run out of money and plead for the early release of the husband. He would be turned out ostensibly to support the family. Judge Grish does not let this sort of sentimentality rule her court. The reckless man goes to jail until adequate and actual provition is made by him for his family, and in the meantime the city looks after the family to the extent of $5 a week.

It appears Judge Grish is able to adjust so many family breaks because she gets entirely away from statutes and accepts as real evidence the irrelevancies and intimate things that really go to the making of domestic war. She is able to prove how foolish the average family quarrel is. So she laughs many a trouble out of court and sees many a hard place in married life softened by the tears of mutual repentance and love renewed.

NATIONAL IDEALISM.

(Kansas City Times.)

There have been hinted suspicions of both sides in this European war that the foreign relations of the United States have been guided by commercialism.

There need be no answer to a sneer, and a boast is uncalled for. But Americans may justly be proud that, of all the nations, theirs is the only one whose policy has not been influenced by commercialism.

Whatever was the immediate motive of the world war, its roots lie deep in commercialism, as those motives are stated by the several nations themselves. "English jealousy of our trade," say the Germans. "German militarism which is designed to take colonies and trade for Germany" say the English.

Whether the "commercialism" takes the form of land lust or trade lust, back of the immediately clashing moralities and immoralities of the conflict commercialism is there.

No one of historic sense would deny or would wish to deny that the United States is proud of its trade and its trade conquests. But neither would anyone with historic sense deny that commercial considerations weigh less with this nation in its foreign affairs than any other. Its idealism is proved and will be still further attested. It is not afraid of being thought afraid; nor is it afraid of casting its all—of lives and of property—in the balance, when its conscience and not its self-interest declares that is the thing to do. The honor of a nation that is "too proud to fight" at other nations' banter is not quickly hurt. But once hurt, the "jingling of the guinea" will not help it.

The barbers of Fort Wayne have organized a baseball club as follows: N. C. Browand, captain; Charles Henker, manager; H. Westermann, B. Lichtenwalter, S. McClellan, George Stryker, Sid Hubbard, J. Collars, J. Brown, Charles Yeakley and J. Lower.

At an early hour the Tom Hunt roadhouse on Spy Run avenue was entered by burglars, who blew the safe and got away with $15. The shock of the explosion that opened the safe caused considerable damage to the building. A trail of blood leading from the scene to the Grand Rapids railroad indicated that one of the robbers was injured.

A marriage, which up to the hour of its consummation was kept secret, was solemnized Thursday night, when Mr. Felix Schanz, the well known photographer, and Miss Mamie Schmoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Schmoll, were joined in holy bonds by Rev. Father J. H. Oechtering, of St. Mary's Catholic church. An elaborate reception followed at the home of the bride. The Euphonia double quartet, of which Mr. Schanz is a member, attended in a body.

VICE OF EVERY KIND ATTACKED BY LYON

Sin in Terre Haute is Given an Airing by the Evangelist.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 17.—Dr. Milford H. Lyon is going after every known form of vice in Terre Haute in the evangelistic campaign he is waging in this city. He is leaving nothing undone in his effort to clean this city morally. Church members are being awakened to their responsibilities as they never were before.

"As far as saloons are concerned I want you to know I wouldn't even buy a lemonade in a saloon," the evangelist declared.

"Cards are a waste of time. They have wasted more time than any other agency I know of. If you want to be cheap and common be a card player.

High School Gamblers.

At this juncture several persons got up to go out. Dr. Lyon paused, leaned his arm on the pulpit for them to leave. While several women were in the aisles the crowd burst into applause and laughter.

"The smoke house ough to be closed." Dr. Lyon continued. "They permit high school students to gamble. It's a shame that such conditions are tolerated in Terre Haute.

"The church members have been a greater menace to this campaign than the keepers of saloons and houses of ill fame."

"A man who frequents a dance hall is a shame and a disgrace to any girl who allows his attentions." Dr. Lyon shouted. "I was amazed to learn that the high school in this city allowed dancing. To think of a public building being turned into a common dance hall. Moral conditions in this city are worse than in any other place in America."

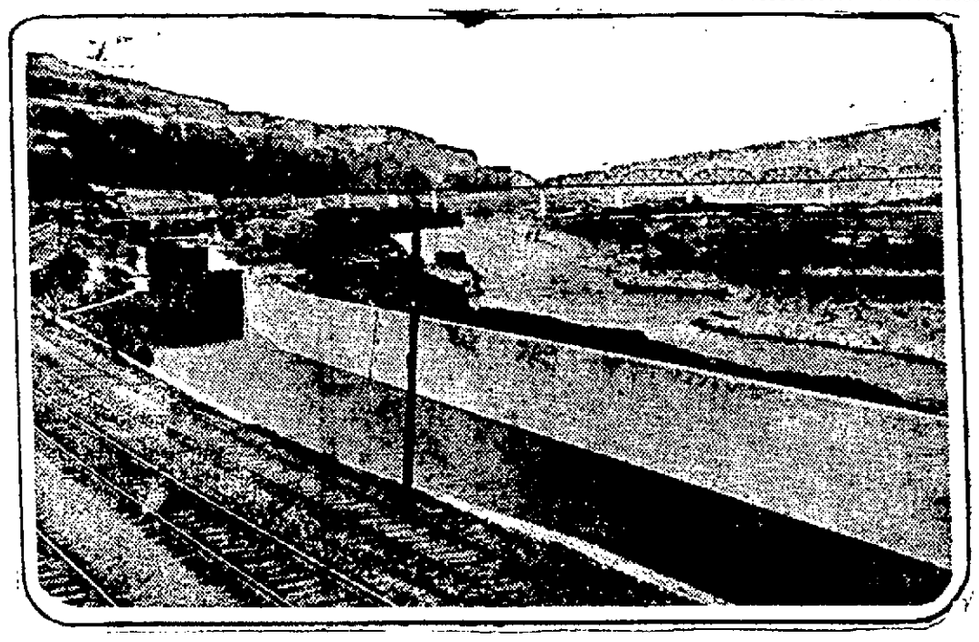
GREAT $6,000,000 CELILO CANAL IN NORTHWEST OPENED.



The opening of the $6,000,000 Celilo canal clears a steamer lane from Astoria to Lewiston on the Snake river. A week's celebration which started Monday, May 3, the day the canal opened, is being held in all the towns along the route from Lewiston to the sea. Since the days of the Lewis and Clark Expedition to the part of the country now known as the states of Washington and Oregon the Celilo stretch has been known as the most difficult piece of water on the Columbia. The canal now makes navigation easy.

MIDNIGHT MOVIES ARE TO BE GIVEN

Films Will Amuse New Yorkers Who Can Not Sleep at Night.

New York, May 14.—They gave a matinee performance of "Alice in Wonderland" a few days ago at 11 in the morning, the idea being to attract the children who have to be home and in bed early. Very soon New York is going to have a moving picture house where the performance will begin at midnight, the idea being to attract the crowd that doesn't know what to do with itself during the long watches of the night.

The Saturday morning matinee is predicted on the fact that with the girls home from school to help around, it is possible to get the breakfast dishes out of the way, the beds made and the carpet sweeper pushed over the rugs, and still have time to get out of the kimono and into the uniform and away by 10:30 o'clock.

Besides, if a woman is gaited to tango she can sandwich in a before-noon matinee between ordering the Sunday dinner and the first number on the P. M. dance program, which will help keep her mind occupied.

For Insomnia Sufferers.

The dog-watch movies, or the ten-cent Pullman, as they are called, will fill another field. It will be at the Garrick. There's a large and steadily growing number of New Yorkers who are afflicted with insomnia only at night. They have to find something to do to take the place of tossing restlessly on their couches. Then there are the train crews on the night runs into New York, who have to go out on the several 5:20s, and have some dark hours on their hands, so to speak.

EVILS OF CONSTIPATION.

Those who are habitually troubled with constipation and who permit their bowels to go two or three days without an operation have little relish for their food. Their stomachs become disordered, they have piles and kidney diseases. No one can reasonably hope for good health unless his bowels move once a day. If they do not move naturally they should be helped, and for this purpose you will find no better medicine than Chamberlain's Tablets. Obtainable everywhere. —Adv.

Baltimore, Md., May 17.—The German Catholic Union of Baltimore, which has a membership of 8,000, at its annual meeting adopted the following memorandum, addressed to President Wilson:

"While proud of our German ancestry, we know only one flag, the flag of our country, and we tender you, the standard bearer, our undivided loyalty.

"We have every confidence in your cool judgment, honest purpose and brave manhood, and are convinced that you would rather be right than president. That God may guide you is the prayer of the German Catholic Union of Baltimore and vicinity."

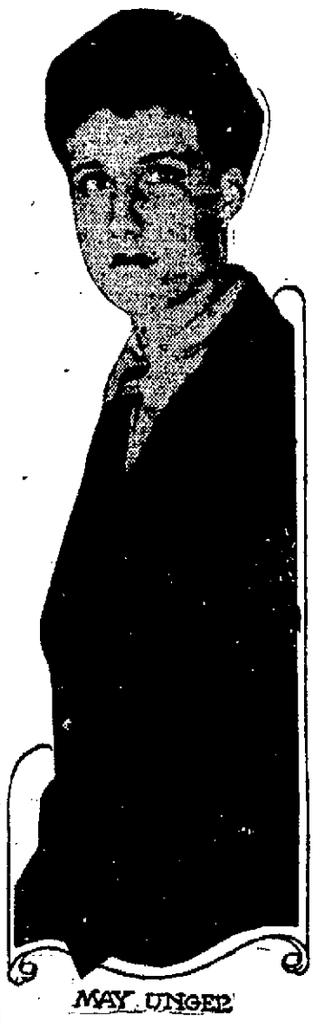
Runs Away; Glad to Run Back Home Again



May Unger hated to work in silk mills at Allentown, Pa.

Her eyes ached, her back ached, and especially her heart ached when the May breezes wafted the fragrance of lilacs into the dusty weaving room.

The out-of-doors called to her. She borrowed boy's clothes, clipped her hair and "ran away to the country."

At Warren, O., she was picked up in a box car—very dirty, but carefree and happy. It was only after a night in jail that she agreed to give up her quest of adventure, put on girl's clothes and bend her back again over the machine in the silk mill.

RESTORED TO PERFECT HEALTH.

"Prior to using Chamberlain's Tablets some four or five years ago I was a great sufferer from headache, dizziness and despondency. My appetite was poor and I was greatly troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets relieved me of these distressing symptoms soon after I began taking them, and eventually I was restored to perfect health," writes Mrs. E. Dietsche, Rome, N. Y. ABE WILEY HAS IT ALL FIGURED OUT

Evolves a Highly Original Scheme to Resist Airmen's Attacks.

Benzonia, Mich., May 14.—Abe Wiley has perfected an idea that will make the United States entirely safe from aerial attacks.

Abe is a great lover of bees, wasps and hornets and probably understands their nature as well as anyone. Last summer he had the loft of his house full of hornets, and wouldn't tell what he was doing with them. Only the other day he came into town to consult Hank Pavey, the lawyer, about trying to get a patent on his hornets and gave away the whole thing.

He discovered that hornets hate the buzz of motors. It seems to enrage them. So he commenced training them. He'd start his auto engine going, opened the window of the loft, and a few humdrew hornets would dash at the motor and attack anything near it. When they came back he had drops of molasses for them as a reward. He got them so that when a city guy went by in a machine a mile away he could open the window, let them hear the noise, and they'd go for it like a flock of bullets. He figures that he can, in case of war, take boxes of his trained hornets to the front and whenever an aeroplane comes near, can send the hornets up at it. He'll guarantee one hornet to knock any fellow out of his seat in an aeroplane at one swat.

ADAPTING IT.

"Now, boys," said the school master, "I want you to bear in mind that the word 'stan' at the end of a word means 'the place of.' Thus we have Afghanistan—the place of the Afghans; also Hindustan—the place of the Hindus. Can any one get another example?"

Nobody appeared very anxious to do so until Johnny Snaggs, the joy of his mother and the terror of the cats, said proudly:

"Yes, sir: I can. Umbrellastan—the place for umbrellas."—Kansas City Star.

TRANSYLVANIA IS SAFE.

Big Liner Changes Her Course Through the War Zone.

New York, May 17.—The Archer line steamer Transylvania passed safely through the war zone about the British Isles and arrived at Greenock, Scotland, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, London time, it was announced by officials of the Cunard line, to which the Transylvania was under charter.

Fears had been felt for the safety of the Transylvania as she had a large cargo of contraband on board and her usual course to Liverpool, for which port she cleared, would take her near the point at which the Lusitania was struck and sunk by a German torpedo on May 6. Because of the danger of submarine attack the Transylvania changed her course and proceeded over a more northerly route.

The Transylvania carried nearly 1,000 passengers, of whom 28, according to the passenger lists, were American citizens.

SPROUTS IN CREAM.

(By Caroline Coe.)

Brussels sprouts are at their best in mid-winter and they are usually cheap at this season. "Sprouts" are a variety of cabbage, but have a decided flavor of their own and this flavor should not be spoiled by combination with other vegetables.

Creamed Brussels sprouts—Boil the sprouts until just tender; and to each box of sprouts cooked add two cups of rich white sauce made by melting four tablespoons of butter in a sauce pan. Do not allow to brown.

When melted add four tablespoons of flour and stir until a smooth paste is secured. Add two cups of cold milk and blend, then return pan to fire and cook slowly for twenty minutes.

Just before turning over the cooked sprouts add one-half teaspoon of salt and a little pepper. Send to table piping hot.

"WON'T YOU COME INTO MY PARLOR?" SAYS SPIDER TO BUTTERFLIES OF FASHION.

Unwary fashion has been caught in a spider web.

The hat of the moment is the spider-web hat, and it's the creation of Miss Virginia Rappe, a young woman who has lifted fashion designing to the plane of a fine art.

The spider-web hat is navy blue maline built in triple circles of blue satin straw; the crown of navy blue satin straw fits close as a skull cap, but its severity is relieved by quaint 1830-style streamers of navy blue velvet.

Society

Honoring her guests in an informal manner this afternoon, Mrs. David W. Moffat opened her home in West Wayne street to a gathering of intimate friends of Mrs. Ben F. Ninde and Mrs. Ethel Ninde Roler, of Chicago, and Mrs. F. R. Kautz, of Indianapolis. In the diningroom Mrs. Charles H. Worden, Miss Jessie Hamilton and Mrs. Albert Mitchell dispensed refreshing things to drink. This is the first time in several years that the visitors have all been in Fort Wayne for a visit at the same time.

AT THE NEW PALACE

La Graciosa, the Queen of Beauty, Tops New Bill Today.

Diligent study and wide experience have contributed to the success of a spectacular scenic novelty, "Visions in Fairyland," that is the headline attraction at the New Palace by La Gracoisa, the queen of beauty. To use the street expression, "There is class to La Gracioso" and has been termed by many eastern critics as the Modern Venus. Other features on the bill will be the charming comedienne, Dorothy Brenner and company, who will present a singing and dancing novelty entitled "At the Candy booth." Capitol City Trio in "merry moments and in mirthful tunes;" Earl Vance, the scientific cartoonist, will show how comic cartoons are made for moving pictures. Doyle and Elaine, two clever girls in a singing and musical offering together with Jaunts and Journeys, the interesting travel pictures.

Tuesday will be "Ladies' Day" at the New Palace when the fair fans will be ushered to the best seats in the afternoon for five cents.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

MARY PICKFORD AS "FANCHON"

Adorable Little Screen Witch at Jefferson.

A glimpse at the screen is sufficient to understand the reason for the numerous requests to see little Mary Pickford portray the title role in Georges Sand's lovely idyl, "Fanchon the Cricket." Mary does not only interpret the character—she incarnates it. She is Fanchon, with her many wiles and moods, her mischievousness and her loyalty to her friends and lover, her pranks and her generosity.

In connection with tomorrow's principal attraction, which is a splendid Famous Players version of Clyde Fitch's noted drama, "The Moth and the Flame," the Jefferson has secured for projection some exceedingly graphic views taken of the ill-fated liner Lusitania, just prior to her last sailing.

AT THE MINUET.

Charles Chaplin and "Who Pays."

The interest that has been aroused among local theater-goers by the serialized short stories which are captioned under the interrogative head, "Who Pays?" has been really phenomenal up to the present showing, which brings to light the third story of this thrilling series. These brilliant sketches come from the prolific pen of Edwin Bliss, a youthful author who has done his finest work in executing these twelve short stories, which have for the themes a dozen incidents taken from life. Today's chapter comes under the title, "When Justice Sleeps."

In connection with the chapter of "Who Pays?" the Minuet will show the usual Chaplin comedy, a feature greatly appreciated by the patrons of this playhouse.

AT THE COLONIAL

"The Fifth Commandment."

The appeal in this touching photo-story of the famous old dramatic success, "The Fifth Commandment" is a far-reaching one, and it never fails to arouse in the beholder a deep sense of the obligations that binds one to their fathers and their mothers. "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother," is the moral that it emphasizes with a kind of gentle and almost beautiful insistence, and the touching climax which marks the finale of the appealing story finds many sympathetic tears in the eyes of those who have some time or other in their lives felt the emotions which alternately scourge and thrill the characters in the story.

On the morrow the Colonial will have an attraction of unusual importance in "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," a film-drama adapted from Robert Service's celebrated poem.

Attention is called to the fact that no one ever seems to think of a bee as a bug. Insect is about the worst thing they are ever called.

BLACK AND WHITE GARB BY NO MEANS SOMBER.

Monte Carlo, the only place on the face of all Europe where Gaiety and Fashion reign and take no heed of war has set the fashion for black and white.

Black and white may be "second mourning," but nevertheless it's very striking—more vivid than the gaudiest of colors and lends itself to effective combinations far from somber.

One of the few fashions American women have borrowed from Europe this spring is the black and white costume—stripes are very popular but the combination is often effected by wearing a fancy jacket of black over a dress of black and white.

CUBS GRAB TWO IN WEEK-END GAMES

Ainsworth and Donley Pitch Wonderful Ball and Win.

Youngstown, O., May 17.—Those Fort Wayne Cubs know no favorites, and they don't give a whoop who it is they lick. After walloping the trailing Erie sailormen for an entire series they shifted to Youngstown, at the top of the league list, Sunday, and gave the leaders a most artistic trouncing. Donley was in the box, and with errors enough for a whole series behind him, he held the locals down and pulled out a win, 9 and 5. Although the Cubs pulled seven errors Donley allowed only six hits in the game, and kept them pretty well spread out, while his teammates piled up thirteen mighty wallops. Hill and Gray worked the mound for the locals but they looked alike to the Hoosier batters.

In addition to hurling the best game of Brant, ss. 4 0 0 2 4 3 men with one down in the third, when he singled and started things for the guests. Smith walked and Bratchi doubled and scored the pitcher. Brant fanned and Holderman drove one out too hard for Scheeran to stop, scoring Smith. Bratchi scored when Hartle tapped out a single.

In the fourth Bell singled and Hartsell sacrificed and Donley singled Bell across the plate.

Holderman opened the fifth with a single and Hartle popped out but Bell doubled and Hill was yanked out of the box. Gray flung one across and Hartsell spanked it out for a single, scoring Bell. Then he stole and scored on Gard's hit.

In the ninth Hartle singled and was sacrificed by Bell, Hartsell was safe on an error and Gard singled Hartle home. Donley finished with a bunt that sent Hartsell across the plate.

The Youngstown crew got two in the fifth and one in the sixth, and the only others were a pair in the eighth when it was forever too late to catch up. The score:

The Saturday Game.

That Ainsworth boy is right there. Working hard in the pinches he took the last of the Erie series Saturday when the Cubs defeated the sailormen 7 and 2. It was a rather long drawn out game and the feature of the affair was two home drives by Brant and a two-bagger and one that went for three by Scott.

Fort Wayne grabbed off three of its tallies in the third when Smith opened the way with a single and Bratchi bunted him to second and went to first safe himself. Each grabbed another base on a fumble and Smith scored on a passed ball. Brant hit over left field fence and scored the other two.

Smith opened things again in the fifth when he walked, Bratchi sacrificed and Brant shot another homer that scored two more. Holderman singled, as did Hartle, who sent the big first sacker to third, Hartle stole and Holderman went home when Close got rattled and threw to the stands. Heck went into the box at this point and Hartsell popped out. Bell singled, scoring Hartle.

Erie got one in the seventh when Scott triple dand Miller singled, and another in the ninth when Scott doubled and Miller again singled, sending him home. The score:

Ladees An' Gentlemen!! The Seven Scarlet Haired Swatters From Cincy--Right This Way.

Here they are, boys—the red-headed Cincinnati Reds. At top, from left to right: Wingo, Ames, Doolin and Killifer. Below, upper pictures, Griffith at right and Mollwitz at left. Lower picture, Lehr.

(By Hugh Fullerton).

Hy-a-a-ah!!

Hy-ah y'are, ladies an' gentlemen!!

Step right this way! Over this direction; ladees and gentlemen. See the greatest marvels of the baseball world—seven of them—count them—seven, all genuine, guaranteed not to ravel, wear, fade or lose their color or run down at the heels.

Seven of them—count 'em—seven!!

The seven scarlet haired swatters from Cincinnati; the real, genuine Cincinnati Reds!

Here they are, ladies and gentlemen: Red Griffith, Red Doolin, Red Killifer, Red Mollwitz, Red Lehr, Red Wingo and Red Ames.

Don't crowd, ladees and gentlemen. Peers closer and examine the most marvelous troupe of Titian tinted tops that ever adorned a baseball team. Seven auburn athletes.

Every shade of red, ladees and gentlemen, known to the artist is on exhibition here today—all for the small sum of 25 cents, a quarter of a dollar.

See the wonderful Titian Topped Tommy Griffith, whose hair outradiates the rays od Old Sol and makes him a marvel in the sun field. Gaze upon the luxurious lovely maroon mop that illumines the brilliant brain of Leon Ames. See the sun burned strands upon the dome of Mollwitz; the ripe peach glow reflected upon his hair from the peaches of his own native state of Michigan. See the glorious glinting gleams from the hirsute halo of Ivy Wingo! Cast your eyes upon the auburn aureole of Lehr, who wore the crimson colors on his head while pitching Harvard to defeat.

One moment, ladees and gentlemen, while the gentlemanly usher passes among you and, for the small sum of a nickel, a half a dime, rents to you smoked glasses that you may scan the scarlet scene of Killifer!

Last but not least, ladees and gentlemen, we have Charles Doolin, whose temper once burst through the top of his head and flared out through his hair. The umpires are compelled to carry hand grenades to extinguish him for fear the flashes from his hair will ignite the grandstands.

The greatest aggregation of scintillating sorrel tops ever gathered upon one ball field; the real Cincinnati Reds!

SHIFTS IN TEAM ON ROAD TRIP

When Bade Myers pilots his Cubs to the field here Wednesday afternoon to open the home series with Youngstown there will be many changes in the line-up. Tuman, who worked pretty well all season, considering, was released, and Smith will be working outfield, while Bell, who joined the club on the road, will handle the third sack. There is some doubt about Beyers getting back into the game by the middle of the week as the is nursing a bad hand and Gard is substituting with pretty classy ball.

The Titanics came out second best in a 15 and 16 struggle with the East End Cubs Saturday afternoon.

The Orioles took the Forest Park Stars through the brush in a 9 and 0 game Saturday, and at once set up a howl for a game to be played anywhere and any time, with anyone—aged about 12 years.

The Young Yales got the worst of a 10 and 9 Saturday afternoon affair with the Panthers.

The Youthful Hagerfelds got 8 Saturday afternoon while the Young Americans stacked up 11.

CONCORDIANS DROP ONE TO CULVER

Lose First Contest in Nine Years to Military School.

Cap Byroade's Teutonic legions went down to defeat before the Culver swaddies Saturday afternoon in the first game the Concordians have lost to the military school in nine years. It was a real case of umps, too, and the indicator-man after the game admitted that he had ruled a foul fly fair by mistake, and it was this liner that shot across the two runs that won for the Culverites. The whole school turned out to meet the Concordians on their return trip and the band and cadets marched through the streets Saturday night with the returning warriors of the diamond (new stuff), drumming up their spirits and trying to forget their defeat. Quality

IN THIS WORD you have the basic idea of the Patterson-Fletcher Company Store.

Quality at this store means more than the material

Quality here is expressed in perfect tailoring and smart styles, as well as excellent materials. It seems to us as though many Fort Wayne merchants have disregarded tailor-work entirely and are trying to see how much material they can give you for $10. Should you be caught in a rain, we know you still want to feel that you have a suit, not merely a bundle of rags. Every Hart Schaffner & Marx Suit is hot and cold weather shrunk and is tailored by hand.

These things are part of the Quality at this store. We try to make this class of clothing as near as possible to the price of common clothes.

"Not high priced—
But high value for the price"
IS OUR MOTTO

Just see how much real value we can give you for..... $25

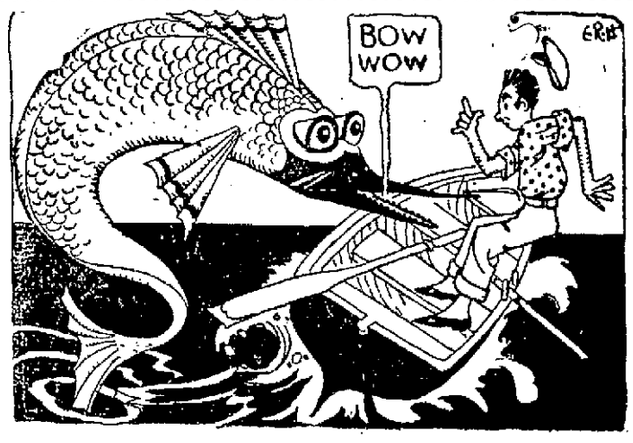
'NOTHER REPORT FROM THE FRONT AND IT'S NO MORE FISHY THAN SOME OTHERS.



Joliet, Ill., May 17.—Censored reports of a twenty-minute battle on the banks of the drainage canal bring hair-raising accounts of a blood-spilling engagement between Lem Northern, the hotel man, and a mad dogfish.

No one knows where the dogfish came from—nothing bigger than a bullhead was ever before seen in the canal—and no one knows where he went to, but Lem declares that while he was sailing a neutral vessel round the canal a huge thing with a beak like a bird, a bark like a dog and a tail like a fish, jumped into his boat and opened a fire of barks and hideous bellows.

Lem responded valiantly to the challenge and after twenty minutes of hard fighting the monster didn't have a bark left in him and he beat a double quick retreat back to the depths of the drainage canal.

er patriotic interest than this occasion. Hundreds of thousands thronged streets at an early hour to witness the land parade, and seek vantage places on the water front. The city was in holiday attire and decked with flags.

Sets Out for Shore.

This morning the president set out for shore aboard a navy launch to perform the first duty of the day, a review of the land parade of sailors, marching and New York state naval reserves, 6,000 strong. Waiting to greet him at the foot of Fourty-first street were representatives of the Mayor's citizens' committee, an escort of mounted police and a great crowd of citizens. Automobiles were on hand to carry the president and his official party to the reviewing stand in front of the public library at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street. Extraordinary precautions had been taken to protect the chief executive. In addition to the usual secret service guards and the uniformed police the whole detective force, 600 strong, had been ordered to report and assigned to stations along the line of March.

Where All Was Bustle.

Meanwhile all was bustle and activity aboard the sixteen dreadnoughts in the river. From each ship 250 blue-jackets and sixty marines were landed to form four regiments of blue-jackets and one of marines—under the command of Admiral De Witt Coffman, brigadier commander. Not a few of the officers and men had distinguished themselves at Vera Cruz more than a year ago. Between regiments marched the ships' band and a regiment of New York state naval militia swung in behind.

The line of march densely packed with spectators was along 25th street to Fifth avenue, up Fifth avenue to Fifty-seventh street, to Broadway and up Broadway to the embarking point at the foot of Seventy-ninth street. The head of the parade was timed to reach the reviewing stand at 10:30 o'clock. Here Admiral Fletcher and other high officers of the fleet, Acting Mayor McAnenny and other local notables had seats with the president. They were to accompany him after the parade to the Biltmore hotel, where he was to be the city's guest at a luncheon and make a brief speech.

The program called for Mr. Wilson's return to the Mayflower immediately after lunch.

Program for the Review.

The president will receive formal calls later. The Mayflower was to weigh anchor about 3:30 for the review. Her course cleared of all other traffic was north between the battleships and Manhattan shore. The Mayflower's escort was a division of destroyers followed by the dispatch boat Dolphin, carrying Secretary Daniels and by the fleet tender Yankton, the police boat patrol and the auxiliary cruiser Dixie.

The fleet which the president sees today for the first time in his official capacity comprises virtually the entire strength of the Atlantic naval forces and is the backbone of a navy which at the outbreak of the European war stood second only to Great Britain's and Germany's. The cruiser division alone is not represented. Of the sixteen battleships the superdreadnoughts New York and Texas with their great 14 inch guns are rated the most powerful. The other units of the battle squadron in the order in which they were built are: Wyoming (flag ship), Utah, Florida, Delaware, North Dakota, Michigan, South Carolina, Kansas, New Hampshire, Louisiana, Virginia, Rhode Island, Nebraska and Georgia. Sixteen destroyers, twelve submarines, three monitors, mine laying, repair, hospital, refrigerator and other auxiliary vessels compose the rest of the fleet.

Tonight the president and his official party will have dinner with Admiral Fletcher aboard the Wyoming. The day's program will end with a race among boat crews from the battleships and a water carnival which they will witness from the Wyoming's deck.

Solid Wall of Umbrellas.

A sharp rain spattered the natty uniforms of the sailors with mud as they swung into parade formation, shortly after 10 o'clock and headed north on Fifth avenue for the reviewing stand in front of the library, between Forty-first and Forty-second streets. Soon after they started the rain changed again to a drizzle. A solid mass of umbrellas, dripping rivulets of water, sheltered the thousands who had come to see and cheer along the line of march.

President Wilson left the Mayflower in a launch and came ashore at the foot of West Forty-first street at 10:15 o'clock. He was accompanied by Acting Mayor McAnneny and W. Duncan Butler, vice chairman of the citizens' committee, whom he had invited aboard the Mayflower. As he entered an automobile to drive to the reviewing stand the two troops of mounted police, who had escorted Mr. McAnney to the pier, started their horses in a canter. As they clattered over the cobblestones, 100 strong, other mounted police took their station beside the automobile in which the president rode and escorted him during the short ride.

Roared Noisy Welcome.

The president rode between thousands of persons lining the sidewalks who cheered and roared a noisy welcome. The presidential party traveled a rapid pace through the streets, trailed by secret service men and a detachment of detectives from police quarters. Seldom had such precautions been taken before to guard a president in New York city. Along the way the president traveled there were many detectives in the streets, some of them being stationed even in tops of houses so that they might better observe the throngs. The secret guard also was unusually heavy.

When the president arrived at the reviewing stand he found the seventh regiment New York National Guard drawn up in salute. The block in which the stand stood was roped off from the public as the head of the column of mounted police dashed into the square, the throngs for blocks set up a cheer that did not end till the president had taken his place. The arrival of his automobile was heralded by a fanfare of trumpets that was almost drowned in the roar of human voices.

Stands Beneath Awning.

Immediately in front of the spot where the president stood beneath an awning to protect him from the rain, a bank of flowers hid the woodwork of the platform. At the corners of the stand the big American flags drooped in the rain, but the weather apparently did not dampen the enthusiasm of the crowd. Within the stand the president was surrounded by naval officers resplendent with gold lace.

A few minutes after the president had reached the stand the head of the parading line came into view. A battalion of mounted police preceded the marchers. Next came the marine corps band, then the marines, themselves, clad in dark blue jackets with light blue trousers and then the regiments of sailors. As each detachment passed the president was saluted.

Throughout the parade the president stood, silk hatted, intent on the spectacle, serious of face except when the passing of the mascots from the various battleships drew ripples of laughter from the crowd. The line was not long in passing the stand. When the last detachment had passed the president, accompanied by Acting Mayor McAnneny, Admiral Fletcher, officers of the cabinet, Mr. Butler, representing the citizens' committee, naval officers and members of the committee, left for the hotel Baltimore, where the program called for a brief address by the president and a luncheon by the citizens' committee.

wide support which has been given to President Wilson's note are facts which both the Austrian and German ambassadors are understood to have communicated to their respective governments. It was believed also that they had cautioned extreme care for the present at least in the submarine warfare to avoid any act which would further intensify feeling in the United States and aggravate the situation. ...

FINE SHOWING IN FIRE DRILL TESTS

Pupils in Both Public and Parochial School Well Disciplined.

Clang! Clang! Clang! sounded an alarm.

"Fire!" beat the brain of every child as he sprang to his feet, dropping or throwing whatever he had in his hands. Even the teachers' pulses quickened and some of them trembled as they marshalled their charges out of the building in double-quick step.

And after all it wasn't a fire, but merely Capt. John F. Huber, of No. 8 engine house, who with his men was on a tour of inspection of Fort Wayne public and parochial schools, trying the pupils' quick exit to be ready in case of real danger.

"They all did quick work," said Capt. Huber, "and some of it was remarkable. One building we reported because of the difficulty the children had in getting to fire escapes. But we found all the pupils well disciplined."

Consulting his notes, Capt. Huber gave the buildings and the time of exit as follows:

Hoagland school, 465 pupils, one minute thirty-five seconds.

Miner school, 500 pupils, one minute and twenty seconds.

South Wayne school, 320 pupils, one minute and five seconds.

Hamilton school, 360 pupils, one minute and sixteen seconds.

James H. Smart school, 675 pupils, one minute and twenty-five seconds.

St. Catherine's academy, 611 pupils, one minute.

Emmaus school, 250 pupils, one minute and two seconds.

Zion's school, 325 pupils, fifty-eight seconds.

Hanna school, 500 pupils, one minute and five seconds.

The drills have been in progress for some days, and no notice has been given of the time of the test.

PREPARING TO GET PETITIONS SIGNED

Flood Prevention Committee to Start the Work at Once.

At a meeting of the flood prevention committee presided over by Mayor Hosey at the city hall Monday afternoon, steps were taken to begin the work of getting signatures to the petitions asking the court to create a drainage district in Allen county under authority of the special act passed by the last legislature. The lists of freeholders of the proposed district, which includes practically all of Allen county, have been prepared and alphabetically arranged by County Auditor Johnson and the big task of procuring the signatures is the next step to be undertaken. It is expected that there will be quite a number of volunteers for this work from among those who are directly interested in flood prevention. Other solicitors will be employed. The city council recently appropriated $250 to meet preliminary expenses.

WILL APPROVE PARK BUDGET.

It is said at a meeting of the council committee of the whole, called for Tuesday evening to consider ordinances making appropriations for the park board budget and for creating several official places and fix the salaries thereof in the park department, the committee will vote its approval of these measures and order a favorable report. The budget ordinance provides for the park department's expenses from May 1 until the end of the year.

TIED PUMPS BID POSTPONED.

Because there was not a quorum present at Saturday's meeting of the park commissioners the bids received for installing intake pumps in the St. Joe river at Tennessee avenue to furnished water for the Lakeside park lake and lagoons were postponed a week for action. Bids submitted by the Fort Wayne Engineering and Manufacturing company and Fort Wayne Oil and Supply company were tied at $330.

WANTS DELEGATES NAMED.

Mayor Hosey has been requested in a letter from Eustace M. Peixotto, chairman of the exposition committee of the National Congress of Recreation, to appoint Fort Wayne delegates to the congress, which will meet at San Francisco exposition July 5 to 10.

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

ONLY TWENTY-TWO MEN SUSPENDED

Wabash Shop Force Reduction Not as Heavy as Expected.

The suspension of employes at the Wabash shops Saturday was not as serious as expected. Instead of suspending forty-four, as expected, only twenty-two were laid off. This condition is due to an increase in the appropriation for shop expenses, granted by the management of the road Saturday. So far as known now the shops will be operated upon a forty hour weekly schedule with the former force less the twenty-two men dropped. The reduction in force as first planned hit the machine shop worst, it being announced that there would be eleven machinists and fourteen helpers let out. Only six machinists and about seven helpers were really dropped from the pay rolls.

NOT BAD ON RAILROADS.

The tornado which swept over northeastern Indiana Saturday night did not cause much damage to railway companies. The Pennsylvania had all its wires broken at a point one and a half miles west of Columbia City by a tree falling upon them. Repairs were made and the lines were operated as usual by 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The G. R. & I. had two wires broken at Wallen and a fuse burned out at the junction west of the city, which interrupted telegraph and telephone operation for a short time. The Nickel Plate had some trouble east of South Whitley, which was soon remedied and the Wabash had trouble at various points, but none of a serious character. The Lake Erie and Western and the Lake Shore were only slightly troubled with their wires.

Collier company and the Indiana Construction company. Other contractors who filed bids are residents of Pittsburg, St. Louis and Cleveland. The bids will be opened Tuesday. Supt. W. M. Wardrop and Division Engineer Guy Scott, of this city, will go to Pittsburg tonight on business connected with the proposed Wayne trace subway and upon their return the result of the bids may be announced.

E. H. BARNES IS DEAD.

G. R. & I. Chief Engineer Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Local G., R. & I. officials were shocked yesterday by news of the death of Edward Harding Barnes, chief engineer of that road, which occurred at his home in Grand Rapids Saturday night from heart failure. Mr. Barnes was with the G. R. & I. as its chief engineer fourteen years. He was previously employed in the engineering department of the Erie and Ashtabula branch of the Pennsylvania. He is survived by a widow, who is now very ill, and a son, Oliver, who is engaged in business in the west.

WILL HAVE SPECIAL TRAIN.

Volunteer Firemen Going to Union City in Style.

The volunteer firemen at the Fort Wayne Electric works are taking an active part in booming the tournament which will be held in Union City Thursday, June 24. They have been advised that the merchants and other residents of that city are desirous of giving the boys the best time they ever had. There are enough volunteer firemen and friends in this part of the state who will go to the tournament to fill a train and the Electric works' company has sent out letters of inquiry to twenty-five towns in this part of the state to ascertain if they will join the other companies here and go to Union City on a special train. Favorable replies have already been received. Among them will be five companies from Fort Wayne—the Electric works, the Kniting mills, the Bowser company, the General Electric Lamp company and the Packard Piano company. Other companies expected to join those of Fort Wayne on a special train will come from Garrett, Columbia City, Butler, Wabash, Bluffton, New Haven, Kendallville, Monroeville, Auburn and Waterloo.

VOTED AGAINST A PARADE.

The union, in the past two or three weeks, lost three of its charter members by death. They were John F. Daly, Herman Clock and Edward Glaser.

M., will vote upon fourteen applications at the meeting tonight, who will be taken in with the big class June 7. The machinists expect to close the present membership campaign with 600 names on the membership roll.

R. B. Harvey, of Monroeville, a graduate student of the Michigan university at Ann Arbor, has received notice that he has passed examination for chemist in the bureau of chemistry and received the highest percentage of all contestants for the position. Mr. Harvey was recently elected a member of the Phi Lambda Upsilon society, an honor conferred on but seven other students this year.

The Broadway limited, No. 28, struck and demolished an automobile on the tracks in Lima, O., Saturday evening. The auto stalled as it was crossing the tracks and the occupants had plenty of time to get out of harm's way. The machine was owned by Oscar Sullivan and was driven by his daughter, Mrs. Herbert F. Rech. The only other occupant was Elizabeth, the daughter of Mrs. Rech.

George W. Stephens, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio, who had been in Chicago, came this way on his return home and remained over night Saturday, leaving for Peru on an early Sunday morning train on the Wabash. He traveled in his private car, which was brought down from Chicago on Pennsylvania train No. 8 Saturday night. Mr. Stephens was superintendent of the Eastern division of the Wabash before this city ceased to be a division point and he has a number of acquaintances in the city.

A DIFFERENCE.

It's wrong to steal a watch or chain,
From off your neighbor;
And if you do, it's right that you
Receive at least a year or two
Hard labor;
Society demands relief
From all who play the petty thief.

But if you pinch a million bucks
And pose repentance,
The law its mercy may extend
And treat you as an erring friend
And ease your sentence;
Strange such big difference should be
'Twixt high finance and larceny.

MODERN BARNUM BUYS AN ARMY AS A THRILLER FOR WILD WEST SHOW.

Joseph C. Miller on his famous charger, Ben Hur. This horse is valued at $5,000, and the saddle Miller uses is worth $10,000. It is silver mounted and inlaid with diamonds and rubies—500 jewels in all. Ben Hur is an Arabian stallion formerly the property of Homer Davenport, famous cartoonist, now dead.

(By Mark Larkin.)

San Francisco, May 14.—Barnum, the circus king, had nothing on Joe Miller as a showman. Which is the reason I am telling this story.

There came a time once, it seems, when Joe—better known as Col. Joseph C. Miller, heading the 101 Ranch Wild West show on "The Zone," at the world's fair here—was hard put for a new attraction for his cowboy circus which was then on the road.

After laborious deliberation Joe finally conceived the idea of buying an army and startling the public with a few true-to-life battle scenes including a couple of massacres and an ambush or two.

"What!" exclaimed his astonished manager, "an army! Suffering fishes, where can you buy an army?"

"Waal," drawled Joe in his soft cowboy fashion, "I reckon I'll go down to Mexico for it. They're a-doin' a bit of revoluting down there and I reckon I might pick up an army right cheap."

So off to the border hiked Joe. But first he armed himself with a letter of credit from the president of the First National bank of Bliss, Okla., where the 101 ranch has its headquarters, said letter setting forth that Mr. Joseph C. Miller was authorized to draw a check for any amount he saw fit—any amount, mind you.

Joe arrived at the border just in time to see the tail end of one of Huerta's armies (5,000 strong) disappearing over the hill accompanied by a couple of regiments of Uncle Sam's soldiers who were herding said army up to the detention camp at Presidio, Texas.

"Waal, I reckon that's my army, all right," mused Joe, as he watched the dust cloud growing smaller in the distance. "I don't much want them peon soldiers, but I would like powerful well to have their hosses and guns. Reckon I'll talk to the Mexican consul; maybe he can fix it."

And the Mexican consul did fix it. Through Consul Fernando Serrano, at Marfa, Tex., Joseph C. Miller purchased an army, including 1,500 head of horses, an uncountable number of guns, 500 burros, great gobs of saddles, ammunition, serapes, tamale recipes and questionable reputations—everything, in fact, except the soldiers themselves. "And the only reason I didn't buy them," Miller explained, "is because it would a busted me to git naturalization papers for the whole crowd.

"I could be arrested for tellin' you how little I paid for that army," continued Colonel Miller. "Since that I sold enough hosses to the United States government to pay for the whole business and still had enough left to have staged an imitation of the European war.

"An' I keep the bill o' sale for that army in my grip just to show to press agents and newspaper men. Come on up to the room an' take a look at it."

SOLDIERS TO STUDY FARMING BY MAIL

Regiment on Mexican Border Will Take Correspondence Course.

Manhattan, Kan., May 13.—Instead of spending their time serenading the fair Mexican senoritas, a regiment of soldiers down on the Mexican border is going to improve its spare moments by taking correspondence courses from the Kansas state agricultural college.

Col. H. J. Slocum, who is in command of 900 men along the border, has written to the college asking for information as to the organization of correspondence courses in his regiment. Col. Slocum was formerly the commandant in the United States military prison at Fort Leavenworth and came into touch with the work of the correspondence study department while there. In his letter he says:

"I would like to start work among my soldiers similar to the work given by the college among the prisoners at Fort Leavenworth. The work there was very practical giving excellent results."

IN THE CHURCHES

PRESIDENT'S STAND LAUDED BY PASTORS

Peace Sunday Observed in Many of the Churches of the City.

In the observance of Peace Sunday in the churches of the city, many pastors, in their sermons, lauded the stand of President Wilson in the matter of continuing this nation as a peace advocate, and also for his Christian character. All the pastors indorsed the way in which he has handled the many difficulties which have arisen in this county on account of the European conflict.

One of the most noteworthy services in observance of the day was held Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church when the pastor, Rev. Henry B. Master delivered an eloquent sermon on the subject, "America, the Prodigal." He stated that America was passing through a crisis and that he believed that the men at the head of the nation would steer it safely to the gulf of peace.

The First Baptist church was the scene of a very auspicious service Sunday evening, when four leading business men of the city gave short talks heartily praising President Wilson and his policy, in his note to Germany. S. F. Bowser, B. Paul Mossman, Judge O. N. Heaton and Attorney David Hogg were the speakers and all spoke on some phase of the subject of Peace. Rev. C. H. Snashall, pastor of the church, made the closing address.

In the other Protestant churches of the city pastors spoke on subjects pertaining to peace and urged their listeners and members to do all in their power to again restore peace by supplication and prayer. The services in all the churches were largely attended on Sunday.

CARS MEET ON BRIDGE.

One Hurt in Auto Crash South of Auburn During Storm.

Auburn, Ind., May 17.—Lott Scofield, 10 years of age, was badly cut about the head by flying glass, and the cars driven by Banker Egley, of Grabill, and A. K. Scofield, of seven miles south of the city, badly damaged when they met on the small bridgge near the Paulen farm, south of the city, in the storm Saturday night. Egley was en route to Angola, and unfamiliar with the road, while Scofield was going home, and thought that the other car had stopped. They met on a small bridge and had either car been shoved six inches it would have fallen to the ditch ten feet below. As it was, only the boy was hurt, although both cars were smashed so badly that they could not be moved until Sunday. The lightning was flashing badly and this added to the confusion of the drivers.

SAYS HUSBAND GOT THEIR BABY DRUNK

Frieda Bauermeister Makes Astounding Charge in Divorce Suit.

That her husband gave their baby, now but eighteen months old, intoxicating liquors to drink in such quantity that the infant became drunk is an astounding charge that stands out among many allegations in the complaint for divorce filed in the superior court by Frieda Bauermeister against Ernest C. Bauermeister. She says they were married in August, 1812, and separated during the present month, when her husband deserted, leaving her without means or credit and with two months' rent due on the house they had occupied. She says also he has beaten her with his fists and habitually called her vile and indecent names. An order restraining the defendant from molesting her or her household effects and the Summit City Soap works from paying him his wages has been issued.

Husband Files Cross Complaint.

Ernest Roth put some hot stuff in his cross complaint for divorce from Sarah Roth, who began action against him in the superior court some days ago, and charges that for the past five years she has been guilty of violating her marriage vows. He says that for six years she has tried to drive him from home so she could get a divorce that would enable her to associate with men. He charges also that she constantly uses vile and vulgar language to him in the presence of their children and has struck him in their presence. Roth says he moved from Ohio to Fort Wayne because his wife's conduct deprived him of a livelihood there and that he traded property there for a home here and that his wife procured the deed to the Fort Wayne property to be made in her name. He wants her restrained from disposing of more than her dower interest in it. They were married in 1892 and have four children aged 19, 16, 12 and 9 years, respectively.

FRANK BATES HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Francis Bates is locked up at police headquarters on a charge of procuring and a woman who gives the name of Nellie Wagonhaus and her home as Chicago, is held on a charge of prostitution. The pair were arrested by Lieutenant Harry Grimme and Police Matron Fanny M. Winch Monday in upper rooms at 512½ Calhoun street, when the two officers called to make inquiry for a pair of delinquent girls. The Wagonhaus woman says she came here to see her little child in the St. Vincent orphan asylum, and while standing on Calhoun street one night last week was accosted by Bates, who asked her if she wanted work. She says Bates took her to his room and had since kept her there. Bates' wife died about three weeks ago in the rooms where he had been keeping the Chicago woman.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

GIRL PRONOUNCED DEAD COMES TO LIFE; TELLS OF VISIT TO HEAVEN

Longview, Miss., May 17.—Mary McCain, thirteen, girl-evangelist, in this out-of-the-way hamlet, is successfully conducting her first revival. She is now leaping into fame all over the south as the girl-evangelist who "died, went to heaven and came back!"

Physicians shake their heads when told that Mary died and came back to life, but her parents are emphatic in assertions that Mary was dead, at least to all outward appearances. She had no pulse, her heart was not beating and her body was cold and rigid, they declare.

Indications were that she had malarial fever, they say, and when she "died" her body was allowed to remain in bed at her home until the following morning, when it was to be embalmed.

But Mary McCain came "back to life" when her grief-stricken parents entered the room the next morning.

Mary complained of being cold and stiff, the parents relate, and then told them her wonderful story of the "trip to heaven."

The remarkable part of the case is that Mary had never been to Sunday School, never saw a Bible, her parents never owning one, and seldom heard the name of God except in a curse.

Her story follows:

"I took awfully sick one Sunday evening at 5 o'clock and went out of my head.

"I can't tell how I got to heaven, but when I came to myself God was holding His hand above my head and told me to come to my home that night and preach just as long as He gave me breath in my body.

"While I was in heaven I saw the angels with arms and wings spread just as far as one could see, and, when I came to myself, God had His hand in front of me until I came to a little step.

"I then stepped off and came straight to my home. When I came to, mother was sitting on the side of my bed and I turned over and seemed somewhat stiff and started to tell mother all about the angels and all things I saw in heaven.

"That night I went to church in Longview and started to preach, and I have been preaching ever since.

"Mother said the doctor told her I was dead and the spirit of God dwelleth within my soul."

Louisiana and Mississippi pastors are besieging the child to come to their towns and conduct revivals.

Mary McCain, thirteen-year-old evangelist, who claims God restored her to life after doctors declared her dead.

ON PLEA OF GUILTY CASE IS DISMISSED

Prosecutor Callahan Puts Unique Entry in City Court Record.

Asisstant Prosecutor Stephen A. Callahan caused a wholly unque entry to be made in the city court records Monday morning, when he moved that the case against George Salisbury, for public intoxication, be dismissed after the defendant had pleaded guilty. Salisbury was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his wife, Catherine Salisbury, who, when called to the stand as prosecuting witness, declined to testify that her husband was drunk, said she didn't know whether or not he was drunk and stated that he had disappeared and that she had merely wanted the police to find him.

"I didn't know what had become of him and I didn't know but what he had been killed," said Mrs. Salisbury.

The couple were wed but a month ago and when Mrs. Salisbury was called to testify she betrayed that she had not got used to her new name, for she gave her name as "Catherine Sunderland," and then hastily corrected her testimony. After Judge Kerr had dismissed the case the couple left the court room together.

Clubbed and Stabbed.

Elmer Smith, a colored man, was fined $10 and costs and given ninety days at the state penal farm for assault and battery on Charles Anderson, who resides at St. Mary's avenue, and the Goshen road. The trouble took place at the Bohilya garage on Clinton street, where Smith broke a broom handle over Anderson's head and then stabbed him in the left breast with something pointed. Smith denied that he had used a knife and it is thought he may have jabbed the end of the splintered broom handle into Anderson. A painful, but not serious wound was inflicted. Smith has been in repeated trouble.

Crook Will Leave the City.

Leo E. Crook, held for ten days on a loitering charge, was given an indefinite continuance after a long and tedious hearing in the city court and promised to get out of the city at once. He is suspected of being a criminal. He had in his possession when arrested by Detective Sergeant Puppert an imported gold watch attached to a heavy gold chain, which bore two $20 dollar gold pieces as pendants. A letter written by Crook to a woman in Canada indicated that his business is crooked and it was shockingly obscene in its language. Crook had roundly abused the woman for not sending him more money. The letter had not been mailed and so is not actionable under the postal laws.

Other City Court Cases.

These drunks were disposed of: William Miller, David McCune, Albert Grim and Louis Walters, indefinitely continued; Mike Dennis, continued until Tuesday morning; John Husti, $1 and costs; Vern Worden, $1 and costs; Charles Wilson, $5 and costs; James Carmody, continued until Tuesday. Carmody is an incorrigible offender and he will probably be sent to the penal farm.

Alva Peters was held until Tuesday on a drunk charge and went to jail in default of $100 bond. Meantime investigation will be made of a quantity of copper wire he is believed to have stolen. Peters was recently released from the reformatory.

Five colored vags were turned loose to get out of the city.

GROCERY BURGLARIZED.

The grocery store of Henry M. Whiteman & Son, 1809 Fairfield avenue, was entered by burglars who carried away fifteen pounds of pork loins, nine pounds of butter, a box of cigars, some smoking tobacco and sixty pennies. Entrance was gained by breaking the transom above a back door.

SUFFRAGISTS PUT TO ROUT BY WHITE MICE

Fight for Ballot Has Not Changed Woman's Natural Instincts.

New York, May 14.—It took a troop of trained white mice and a street faker less than ten seconds yesterday afternoon to refute the claim that the fight for the ballot is destroying the gentler nature of woman.

The usual relay of pretty workers of the woman suffrage party were in front of the party headquarters, No. 46 East Thirty-fourth street, selling The Voter.

At about 5 o'clock the street faker and his mice, "guaranteed to tell your fortune, past and future, for a dime," came along. He spread his paraphernalia, mice and all on the sidewalk in front of the suffrage headquarters.

A series of agonizing shrieks rose above the noise of the street traffic. Copies of The Voter were hastily dropped and there was a rush into headquarters.

A few moments later the yellow hangings were surreptitiously drawn back and four scared girls, all followers of "The Cause," peered cautiously out the window.

Finally the street faker gathered up his mice, remarked "business is bad," and marched on to the next stand.

JOE JEFFERS A TRUSTY.

Conduct Since Confinement in Jail Earns Special Privilege.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17.—Joe Jeffers, Taylorville gunman and former henchman of Donn M. Roberts in the rule of elections in Terre Haute, who is serving a six months' jail sentence here for participation in the conspiracy to steal the last election in Vigo county for the democratic machine there, has become a trusty at the Marion county jail. His assistance to the government in prosecuting the machine leaders, and his conduct since his confinement in jail, won the privilege for him, which was first given him yesterday. He was driving the sheriff's automobile late yesterday.

TAKES POISON IN AUTO.,

Clyde Burton is Found Dead When Car Reaches Mitchell.

Mitchell, Ind., May 17.—Clyde Burton, age thirty, committed suicide with poison here. He visited a sister living in the country and asked for money to settle a board bill, saying he expected to be arrested if it was not paid. His sister refused to give him money. Burton is said to have been somewhat under the influence of liquor, and started to return to Mitchell in an automobile with a constable. He occupied the back seat in the car. The constable noticed him drinking from a bottle, but supposed it was whisky, and paid no attention to the man's act. When the automobile arrived here, and Burton was asked to get out, he was dead.

Three of his friends, in the last two or three years, have taken their lives in the same way.

Oats—Receipts, 5 loads; 53@59c bu.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 17.—Serious crop damage reports from Missouri had a bullish effect today on the wheat market here. Assertions were received that Hessian fly was in every field in the western part of the state and that a heavy reduction of yield could apparently not be escaped. Widespread frost over the spring crop belt tended further to strengthen the market. After opening ½c off to a like advance, prices scored a material gain all around.

The close was unsettled at a rise of 1¾@4½c net.

Corn ascended with wheat. At first, however, the market was heavy, owing to favorable crop reports and because of easy cables. Opening prices, which were ¾c to ⅞c lower, were followed by a rally well above Saturday night's level.

Quotations were firm, closing ⅝c to ½c net higher.

Oats merely reflected the action of other grain. Trade was of a scattering character.

Steadiness was the rule in provisions. The bulge in cereals seemed to offset lower prices for hogs.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, May 17.—Last Saturday's price recovery was resumed on a broad and general scale at the outset of today's trading, standard shares gaining one to two points, while war specialties rose three to seven, Bethlehem Steel making the greatest advance. Trading reflected confidence in a satisfactory adjustment of impending international complications, London's market for our shares showing firmness. Dealings were fairly large but without spectacular feature. United States Steel was the only stock to show unusual activity at the opening, a block of 4,600 shares being offered at 52½ to 53, against last week's close of 51⅝.

Initial gains were followed by slight recessions, resulting mainly from selling for profits. This condition in turn gave way to yet a higher level for some of the leaders, notably steel. Specialties, however, failed to retain more than a fair share of their advance, Bethlehem Steel, for instance, yielding three points. Trading slackened before the end of the first hour, becoming almost stagnant by midday. Bonds were strong.

Short covering checked a further decline in the final hour. The closing was firm.
